Boodle Charges Against Toledo Councilmen

Are to be investigated by a grand jury.
Street rumors of a serious nature are afloat to-day.
The situation has a bad look.
And startling developments are promised.
The grand jury will sit on Wednesday.

VOL XVII. NO. 68. TOLEDO, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

IN THE BEE TO-DAY

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., July 12, 1892.

The area of low pressure central over Wyoming has moved northeastward and is central over Lake Superior, South Dakota and Minnesota and very light showers over Nebraska.

The area of high pressure remains stationary over the southern states, from which section local thunder storms are reported.

A second area of high pressure covers the northwest and will move eastward during the next 36 hours.

The temperature continues high, and has remained stationary in all sections except over Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota, where it has fallen from 6 to 12 degrees.

The temperature will grow slightly cooler again, but no decided cool weather is anticipated.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity for 36 hours—Fair, continued warmer, followed by showers on Wednesday.

Greet the Soldiers as They Arrive at Homestead.

The Strikers Receive the Troops With Open Arms,

And Declare That All Is Peace and Harmony,

But They Are Determined That the Mills Shall Not Run.

The Excitement and Defiance Is Only Suppressed, Not Ended.

The Ugly Head of Starvation Makes Its Appearance,

And There Is Much Suffering for Want of Food—The Strikers Have Good Homes, But Nothing to Eat.

Homestead, July 12.—The troops arrived unexpectedly from the east on special trains from Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad and left the cars at the station close by the fence of the steel works. Maj.-Gen. Snowden and Adjt.-Gen. Greenland were in command. The Eighteenth regiment was the first to arrive. There were two trains containing the Fifth, Tenth, Twelfth and Eighteenth regiments. A number of freight cars with 60 horses and two gondola cars with three Gatling guns and two cannons.

Several companies were at once placed on guard, and Eighth avenue from City Farm lane to Munhall is closed to civilians. The advisory committee of the locked-out men met at once and decided to wait upon the officers in charge of the troops, in order to ascertain what restrictions will be placed upon private citizens.

There were few people at the station when the train arrived. They were nearly all locked-out men. They watched the soldiers sullenly while they unloaded their arms and cannon. In a few minutes the news spread, and thousands of people flocked to the streets around the station and remained there while the troops moved into their camp.

Starvation.

Men, women and children are starving in Homestead as a result of the lock out. All of the mare Hungarians. Most of them have habitations in houses built by the Carnegie company near the idle mills. They are well-housed but food is not to be had. The refusal of the leaders to accept outside contributions of money to carry on the fight practically makes the condition of the hungry Hungarians hopeless, and realizing this many of them have left town to seek work elsewhere.

Conservative men among the strikers when asked if they believe the company will attempt to place non-union men in the works under the cover of the militia shake their heads dubiously and do not care to discuss the matter. The opinion seems to be general that Mr. Frick will not let the mills remain idle if he can possibly help it.

It's flying in the face of Nature to take the ordinary pill. Just consider how it acts. There's too much bulk and bustle, and not enough real good. And think how it leaves you when it's all over! Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets act naturally. They help Nature to do her own work. They cleanse and renovate, mildy but thoroughly, the whole system. Regulate it, too. The help that they give, lasts.

They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, the smallest, easiest, and best to take. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet for a gentle laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You pay only for the good you get.

This is true only of Dr. Pierce's medicines.

MONSTER MEETING

That Arranged the Great Reception to the Militia.

Homestead, July 12.—The mass meeting at Homestead was a most significant one, and its developments are awaited with intense interest by the citizens on the other side. The meeting was attended by about 5,000 people, and this number was about everyone of the number who shouldered a musket and fought the Pinkertons in the bloody battle of last week.

The meeting was called to order by Hugh O'Donnell, who, after stating that Burgess McLuckie would preside, invited the representatives of the press to the platform. "They are the people," said he, "who have created a public sympathy for us all over the United States. They have been our friends." (Applause.) The speech of Burgess McLuckie on assuming the chair was a significant one. Although the burgess of Homestead, he is one of the most prominent leaders of the strikers, and shares with Hugh O'Donnell a great influence over these sturdy workingmen.

"The object of this meeting," said he, "is to take suitable action, for a reception to our friends, the military, who will arrive here in a day or two. The general impression is abroad that the military people are dangerous people. This is a mistake; and in order that the dignity and honor that they so nobly represent shall not be insulted, we have come here to take whatever action we may deem feasible to prevent the calamity.

We want to arrange for a reception—one of the kind that the military has never thought of. (Laughter.) We want our people to a man—in fact every man woman and child in this town, to welcome the military people with open arms. Because just as true as we stand here, I pledge you my judgment that this is one of the best steps that could possibly have been taken for our people—this calling out of the military. I want to say to you that I think this man, Governor Pattison, is acting wisely and judiciously. He understands our cause, and he understands our position; so does the entire civilized world. He is a just man, and a man who will not cater to monopoly, a man who will not permit the troops of this state, the servants of the people, the defenders of the dignity of this commonwealth, which is ours, and as near and dear to us as to any human being that ever God let breathe—I say, Robert Pattison will never permit an outrage to be perpetrated upon a people such as the people of Homestead and this surrounding community. (Great applause.). It is also an evident fact that that unwashed horde of Pinkerton people are again mobilizing their forces; that is also eveident to our governor. He does not want any bloodshed here, and he knows by our action of the past that if that unclean horde strikes our shores there must be bloodshed. (Applause.)

The Governor.

People said last night, "What is the matter with the governor?" They do not know as much about this as the governor does. That is why they ask this question. The governor knows that these unwashed hordes are mobilizing again. It is the most desperate blow ever struck to the Pinkertons since the organization of that institution. (Applause and cheers.) He does not want us to be slaughtered or to receive further injury at the hands of that illegal, unlawful, dirty, sneaking institution. (Laughter and applause.) And so your friends are about to come here—the safest people that you could possibly be in with. You know you do not want H. C. Frick or his horde; neither do you want Bob Pinkerton or his horde. The military are here to defend that which it is right to defend—the state and the constitution, and the people and the laws. (Cheers).

I am here to ask the citizens of this town to receive our friends with open arms, and to tender them one of the grandest receptions that has ever been tendered to any people. (Applause.) Go down with the reputation that you have already established as the most generous, noble community of men. (Applause.)

I do not want the mobilized representatives that may put in an appearance here to be insulted by even a hoot or a howl or the least indication of displeasure. I for one stand here and say that if any man is indiscreet enough to do an act of that kind in this emergency he should be taken to the river and be ducked—and I will be one to help do it. ("Good, good," and applause.) You are not going to interfere with our best interests; so our ducking committee will scarcely need to be appointed at this meeting. (Laughter.)

A brawny mill worker jumped to his feet and with great seriousness moved that any man who should be foolish enough to offer any insult to the troops when they come, be immediately thereafter taken to the river and ducked. The motion prevailed by acclamation and the special policemen were subsequently instructed to carry it out to the letter. It was also ordered that a committee should be appointed to inform all the mill workers not present that such action had been taken.

"Now, gentlemen," resumed the burgess, "our plan is to get out every band in Homestead." (Great applause.)

A man representing the musicians shouted, "I am authorized to say that the bands have already volunteered their services and again there was great enthusiasm.

The president of each lodge was instructed to make proper preparations for the ceremonies, and the burgess announced that he would ascertain exactly when the military was expected and give notice of their approach by town criers.

Some indiscreet striker suggested that a committee be appointed to make complaint if any member of the militia should be guilty of unbecoming conduct at any time, but he was promptly suppressed.

"If it should be found at any time," said the burgess, "that there had been any breach of the peace by the military people, we will look it up then; but we certainly are not going to criticise their conduct until they commit some act." (Great applause.)

The burgess announced that he would issue a proclamation inviting all persons not connected with the mills, and having no business in the city other than curiosity, to keep away while the military should be here.

After all these arrangements had been consummated by an unanimous vote, there were demands for speeches from nearly all the popular leaders. Frank Fugula made a speech in his own language to the Slavs, explaining all that had been done, and Jerry Dougherty made a ringing appeal for order and sobriety while the militia should be in the city. Don Harris, president of the New York Cigarmakers' union, spoke in much the same vein. He said: "You are the pioneers of a movement that must eradicate from the civilization of this United States a blot upon its escutcheon—the Pinkerton detective system." Several other speeches, all counseling order and sobriety, were made, after which the meeting adjourned amid much enthusiasm.

A QUIET NIGHT

Spent at Homestead Before the Arrival of Troops.

Homestead, July 12.—The advisory committee of the strikers has received information that alleged agents of the Amalgamated association have visited several large cities of the country, soliciting subscriptions for the strikers. In some instances these imposters are said to have gotten large sums of money, their fraudulent mission being furthered by the exhibition of credentials forged upon letter heads of the Amalgamated association, which they had obtained in some mysterious way. The advisory committee this evening asked the statement to be sent abroad that no man had been authorized to solicit contributions for the strikers, and that the mill workers at present were in no need of financial assistance. At a later stage, when the resources of the association are exhausted and assistance is repuired, an appeal will be made through the proper channels.

At a late hour last night the streets were almost deserted. One reason for this is that most of the population retired at an early hour, in order to be up by sunrise to-morrow to participate in the reception ceremonies to the militia. The bands held a rehearsal and determined upon the airs of triumph that should be played on the arrival of the militia.

A committee representing Mr. McLuckie and the advisory committee of the strikers are to-night in telegraphic communication with Gen. Snowden to ascertain the exact hour which the militia may be expected to-morrow. They have informed Gen. Snowden of the action of the mass meeting and stated that information is desired in order that the reception may be timed with the arrival of the troops.

A report is in circulation that an attempt to install non-union workingmen in the Homestead mill will be immediately followed by a general strike of union men in all the other Carnegie mills. When it is known that the Homestead mills are less than one-eighth of the vast Carnegie interests, the importance of a general strike may be appreciated. There is very little doubt that pressure will be brought upon the workmen of the other mills to urge them to come out, but there is not much reason to hope that such pressure will be successful.

In the first place, one of the other Carnegie establishments is already operated by non-union labor, and of course it would be folly to suppose that those men would come out because of any sympathy with organized labor. Then, too, in the other Carnegie mills there is no dispute whatever upon wages or anything else, but the scale has been signed by both sides for the ensuing year. For either side to break the agreement now, whatever the pretext might be would be to lay that side open to the charge of broken faith and injure their cause more than it could help it.

THE HOMESTEAD MEN.

History of the Organization to Which They Belong.

New York, July 12.—The present occasion at Homestead is not the first time that strained relations between Andrew Carnegie and his employes has brought the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers into prominence. It is now a long time since any affair in the field of labor has attracted such general public attention as the lockout of his men by Mr. Carnegie and their fights with the force of Pinkerton detectives sent to awe them into submission to his dictates by force of arms.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers is, without doubt, one of the most powerful trade organizations in the country, not only on account of its 60,000 members, but because of the many skilled workers which constitute its rank and file, the able officers which have for many years directed its growth, and the excellent system of discipline which is a feature of the association. Then again, not the least factor in its success and prosperity is the abundant financial resources at its disposal in time of need, and the system of accumulation of dollars has gone far to render it impregnable to the assaults of capital not backed by organization.

The present Amalgamated association was first organized in Pittsburg in 1858 under the name of "The Sons of Vulcan. This organization did good work, and laid the foundation for the future success of the Amalgamated association.

In 1876 there were a number of organizations of iron and steel workers in and around Pittsburg, and the question of amalgamating them was at that time one of the all-absorbing questions of the day among the workingmen concerned. At last, in spite of much opposition on the part of a number of narrow-minded workmen, the men of some of the local unions met in convention in Pittsburg, and on August 4, 1876, the "Sons of Vulcan" disowned their alleged father, and in connection with the other unions represented in the convention reorganized as the National Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

At the time of the organization of the Amalgamated association in 1876, it contained 111 lodges and 3,775 members. In 1886, so rapid had been the growth of the association, it had 177 affiliated lodges and 35,000 members.

About the year 1886 the question of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor was generally discussed, and in 1887 accomplished. Since that time one of the general officers of the A. F. of L. has been a member of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

At the time of its affiliation with the A. F. of L., the Amalgamated association was a tangible proof of the advantages of organization. The wages of its members had increased 10 per cent.; its treasury was in a good condition, although $228,893 had been disbursed in strike benefits, and it occupied an acknowledged position of great influence in the ranks of labor in this country.

The Amalgamated association, besides paying a strike benefit of $4 a week to all its members when on strike, also pays a death and sick benefit.

From the beginning of its existence, the Amalgamated association has been the exponent of arbitration, and every year since 1876 it has held a conference through its accredited representatives with the manufacturers, which have always resulted satisfactorily until 1890, when the McKinley bill was proposed. It was then that the troubles of the workingmen really began.

The principal officers of the Amalgamated association are Wm. Weihe, president; M. M. Garland, assistant president, and President-elect; Wm. A. Carney, first vice president; Stephen Madden, secretary; Thomas Kilgallon, assistant secretary; Edward A. Keil, treasurer; John Pierce, Thos. Mansell, and C. H. Kaufman, trustees; and John P. Sheehan, Harry Hocking, R. W. Prosser, J. D. Hickey, Thomas Hanley, P. H. McEvey, Thomas Cunningham, and John Gallagher, assistant vice presidents, in the order named.

The Amalgamated association is divided into eight districts, with a vice president in charge of each district, assisted by deputies. The districts are situated in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, West Virginia and Alabama. It never was so strong as at present, for besides a well-filled treasury, it has a membership of over 60,000 men, and consequently can be depended upon to make a good fight for its rights against the monopolistic greed of any corporation or individual.

ARMS OF THE WORKMEN.

Speculation as to What the Militia Will do About Them.

Homestead, July 12.—What Maj. Gen. Snowden will do concerning the large quantity of ammunition which the locked out men have at their disposal is a question incident to the consideration of the matter. The quantity of powder and shot concealed in and about Homestead is sufficient to supply a small army in a warm battle.

Nearly every workman has a weapon of some kind. It is hardly to be supposed that Gen. Snowden will allow these stores to remain in the possession of the workmen if he ascertains their whereabouts and it is almost certain that he will be informed as to their whereabouts. Such information will be easily obtained and the general will be obliged to act. Friction with the strikers in this connection may cause trouble. To take away their arms and ammunition would be to them a virtual defeat and they are not in that calm condition to accept such a radical change with equanimity. When the correspondence between Sheriff McCleary and Gov. Pattison apparently shows the reason that induced the governor in ordering out the troops, another view is held by some of the leaders.

They think the rumors from many points of active recruiting of men for the Pinkerton service and the belief among the strikers that the Pinkertons are assembling near Homestead induced the governor to act. The leaders profess to be certain that Pinkerton spies are in town and this belief is borne out by the recognition here yesterday by one of Pinkerton's chiefs, a man who has been in the service of the agency for many years and whose connection with it and with the detective department of a western city has given him a wide experience in police matters. When the alarm was given Saturday night that the Pinkertons were coming the pickets ran across several groups of men lounging about in the vicinity of the Carnegie works.

LAUGH AT LOVEJOY.

The Workmen Deny His Statement of Disaffection in Their Ranks.

Homestead, July 12.—The statement of Secretary Lovejoy of the Carnegie company that he looked for a large number of the locked-out men returning to work at the company's scale when the national guard assumes control of the town and mills, is not the feeling that pervades the atmosphere of Homestead.

It can be positively stated that the strikers do not even consider such a turn in events. They are united in their determination to keep up the fight and Mr. Lovejoy's optimistic expectations are greeted with derisive remarks.

According to his statement, one-third of the workmen have intimidated the other two-thirds to such an extent that they are fearful of their lives to return to work, although willing to do so. But the two-thirds appear very willing to be so intimidated.

The men are a unit in their opposition to the company's scale. Rumors of an attempt on the part of the Carnegie company to secure non-union men in Richmond and other places in Virginia have caused many mutterings of a vindictive character and these assume open threats when it is mentioned that the majority of the men secured to take the places of the locked-out men are negroes.

The color question is likely to be injected into the Homestead difficulty in a very forcible manner if an attempt is made. Non-union workmen of Caucasian extraction would be made to feel their position very keenly, but negroes would fare far worse.

A United Press reporter took some pains to-day to ascertain the feeling concerning any attempt to place non-union men in the mills under cover of protection by the militia and the few persons who would talk to him openly agreed that the result would be far more serious than might be expected with the nation's guard in charge of affairs. "It would mean bloodshed," said one man, and this view the others coincided in.

The Investigating Committee.

Washington, July 11.—The sub-committee of the house judiciary committee to investigate the Homestead leave here at 7:40 p. m. for Pittsburg. Mr. Oates is chairman.

BRITISH ELECTIONS.

Gladstone Is Conceded a Small Majority.

Conservatives Fear He Can't Run the Government,

And Offer Him Plenty of Advice—Some Exciting Incidents of the Elections.

London, July 12.—The conservative papers concur in conceding that Mr. Gladstone will have a majority in the next parliament enabling him to force the government to resign, but offering no guarantee that the liberals will be able to carry on business.

The Standard says: "If the Gladstonians cannot be prevented from returning to power Mr. Gladstone, with a nominal majority of 30, would be in as embarrassed and hopeless position as the head of a cabinet could occupy. He would not be able to maintain his position in the house of commons for a month. If he tried to palter with his promises to the Irish he would lose 80 votes, placing him in a minority of 50 if the Irish abstained from voting, and of 150 if they voted against him.

"If he brought in his home rule bill, unless it contained everything that Mr. Parnell demanded, the Parnellites and anti-Parnellites would immediately compete in ostentatious dissatisfaction with the bill. If the bill conferred upon the Irish parliament uncontrolled power a number of his English and Scotch adherents would desert him."

Incidents of the Elections.

An exciting scene occurred at a liberal meeting held in the Forest of Dean division of Gloucester, where Sir Charles Dilke is standing as the liberal candidate against Mr. Colchester Wemyss. A resolution was offered declaring against Sir Charles, and adding that the electors of the district only wanted a man of high moral character to represent them in parliament. The wife of Sir Charles was on the platform when the resolution was put, and she wept bitterly. There was great excitement during the voting, which was heightened when it was declared that the resolution was carried. Friends of Sir Charles demanded that a recount be made and this was done, only to confirm the previous result.

The contest in East Worcester between Austin Chamberlain, son of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, liberal unionist, and Oscar Browning, liberal, had some piquant features. Mr. Chamberlain was a pupil of Mr. Browning at Merron college. Mr. Browning was assisted in his canvass by other dons, while Mr. Chamberlain was assisted by a number of his college chums. His father's influence also helped him well. The result of the poll showed the election of Mr. Chamberlain, who received 5,111 votes against 2,517 cast for Mr. Browning.

The Queen and Gladstone.

The conservative majority can absolutely rely upon the queen to support the lords in the rejection of the home rule bill as passed by any majority Mr. Gladstone can now obtain. The queen and Mr. Gladstone have never had other than frigid official relations. The queen only received him when business dictated, for the information of the ministry. Mr. Gladstone will find his opening trouble with the queen if he offers a post to Mr. Labouchere; yet the radicals hold that Mr. Gladstone has pledged a place to Mr. Labouchere, whose persistent attacks upon royalty, apart from certain details of personal history have made him obnoxious to the queen. If Mr. Labouchere does not get an office he will be a thorn in the side of the liberal ministry, and nothing is more certain than that the queen will refuse to receive him as a minister.

Fight for the Speakership.

The first fight in parliament will probably be over the election of speaker. A section of the liberals oppose the re-election of Speaker Peel, and unless Mr. Gladstone sits on the project there will be a hot party contest for the speakership. For the past 50 years party leaders have always assented to re-elections to the speakership, refraining from regarding the chair of the house as a party appointment, and probably Mr. Gladstone's customary reiterance of precedent will cause him to suppress the attack on Mr. Peel. It is different, however, with Mr. Courtney's post as chairman of committees, which is strictly a party post and Mr. Courtney will be ousted.

Arrangements have been made to give the defeated minister, Mr. Ritchie, a seat by giving Ganisford Bruce, the new member for Holborn, a vacant judgeship.

At midnight the total returns showed that the conservatives had 198 members, the liberals 165, the McCarthyites 30, the liberal-unionists 27 and the Parnellites, 5.

MINING CONGRESS

A Monster Gathering at Helena Montana.

Largest Gathering of Mining Interests Ever Held.

Free Silver Will be a Prominent Topic of Discussion—Wild Cat Mines Will Also Come in for Some Attention.

Helena, Mont., July 12.—The national mining congress which opened to-day is much more important in point of numbers than the one which assembled in Denver a year ago, and from which the call for the present gathering was issued. Nearly every state and territory is represented, the delegates in the majority of instances being appointed by the governors of the several commonwealths.

Silver men are here from all over the union, and there is a remarkably large number of mono-metallists. It is intended to be a strictly non-partisan gathering devoted entirely to the mining business, although the free silver question will be freely discussed.

Up to 10 o'clock this morning over 1,000 delegates had registered, not counting the hundreds of visitors who are interested in the proceedings of the gathering although not officially accredited as delegates.

Among the prominent arrivals this morning was L. F. Deforest, and who represents the New York mining exchange. He says that the New York mining market has for several months been in a bad shape owing to the unwillingness of the general public to indulge in free trading, and he proposes to present a statement on the subject to the convention. There is great need, he says, of a reform, and through which all the wildcat stock may be exterminated. Speculators, he said, ought to be able to go into a mining exchange with the same degree of confidence enjoyed by those operating in wheat, cotton and other commodities. The time has arrived when it has become absolutely necessary to protect the public from imposition, and this can only be done by routing out and absolutely exterminating the wild cats.

The splendid new auditorium was packed to its full capacity shortly after noon when the convention was called to order. It was the inaugural convention of the new structure, and its conveniences and beauty elicited many warm expressions from the delegates from south, east and west.

The convention was called to order by Hon. B. Brown, chairman of the executive committee of the National Mining association, and who with Gen. J. K. Toole, ex- Governor H. P. Hauser and others delivered addresses of welcome and to which several appropriate responses were made by visiting delegates.

The states were then called for the usual committees on credentials, permanent organization.

TERRIFIC ALPINE STORM

Carries With it Death and Destruction.

Sudden Rise of the River Arve Sweeps Away the Town of St. Gervais and Many Are Killed.

Paris, July 12.—A terrific storm swept over the Chamounix valley last night. Rain fell in torrents and the enormous quantity of water precipitated caused the river Arve to rise suddenly to a great height. The swelling of the mountain stream led to the inundation of the country along the banks and great damage was done at many places.

The worst disaster was at St. Gervais, the famous health resort. The village was practically swept away and it is reported that 200 residents and visitors were drowned. The celebrated baths were destroyed and at least half the buildings in the place demolished.

The Arve is full of floating debris, mingled with which are many corpses of men, women and children, besides hundreds of carcasses of cattle, goats and other animals.

The Chamounix valley is the most celebrated in the Alps for its picturesque sights and wild grandeur. Its southern boundary is the famous Mont Blanc, from which and from the opposite mountains, hardly less noted, vast glaciers descend into the valley. The valley is about twelve miles long and from one to six broad, forming the upper basin of the Arve.

ALLEGED BOODLING

Special Session of the Grand Jury Summond

To Consider Charges Against Members of the Council

Accused of Soliciting Boodle for Their Votes.

Judges Lemmon and Harmon Ordered the Call.

Prosecutor Barber Is Reticent, But Talks Interestingly With a Bee on the Matter in a General Way—Rumors on the Street.

A sensation long pending was sprung in common pleas court yesterday afternoon when Prosecutor Barber made application before Judges Lemmon and Harmon for a special session of the grand jury to investigate alleged irregularities in the common council.

The request was promptly granted, and this morning Sheriff Stuart started to notify the grand jurors, whose presence is urgently requested for to-morrow morning.

The chages have been common street talk for over a week, and while Mr. Barber and those preferring the charges refuse to give particulars, it is well known that they refer to alleged attempts to extract money from corporations interested in the passage of certain legislation.

Mr. Barber was seen by a Bee this morning relative to the matter, but he was very reticent.

"Have you any objections of making public the nature of the charges, Mr. Barber?" he was asked.

"I cannot very well until the judges charge the grand jury, when the facts will undoubtedly be given. You know, of course, of the street rumors."

"Yes, what are there in these rumors—you refer, of course to the charges of irregularities in the common council?"

"Yes, the charges are of a serious I would say, of a very serious nature, and the street rumors are in line with the evidence that has been submitted to me."

"Who have preferred these charges?"

"I cannot give names. But I will say they are among the most prominent and influential citizens of Toledo."

"Did the charges come to you in the nature of a petition for an investigation?"

"Not exactly. The parties came to me and made certain charges which the court seems to think worthy of special and thorough investigation."

"How many members of the common council are implicated?"

"That I cannot tell. Even if I knew I would not tell. It will be for the grand jury to find that out. One thing is certain, the investigation will be full and thorough."

"Would it be correct to say that nine members are in the alleged conspiracy?"

Mr. Barber laughed. "You must not ask such leading questions," he said. "The charges simply say 'certain members,' and does not specify the number."

"In the event of the grand jury finding true bills, will the trials proceed at once?"

"That I cannot say. It will depend altogether on the court."

It appears that the charges are in substance that certain members of the common council, whose names are given, have solicited payment for their votes in legislation before the council. In other words that said members are boodlers.

It is claimed that money has been demanded for the passage of certain legislation.

The Plato Oil company are said to have preferred the charges, and the complainants are confident they have a dead sure cinch on at least eight members who are directly, and three others indirectly implicated.

In one case, it is said, a stenographer took down in short hand a proposition of one member who guaranteed to secure a certain number of votes for a definite sum of money.

In another the bookkeeper was concealed under a couch when a similar proposition was made to another concern.

One of the parties who preferred the charges was asked for particulars this afternoon.

"You must see Mr. Barber," he said. "We have placed the evidence in his hands and he will give you what he cares to have known."

"How many members of the council are implicated?"

"At least eight, and perhaps more; but it would be wiser to say but little for a day or two. You had better see Mr. Barber."

Names are freely mentioned on the streets, and it is said that not less than ten important witnesses will give somewhat interesting evidence before the grand jury, which will convene at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

VICTORY INDEED.

Formal Opening of a Great Hotel

That Is to Regain Prestige for Put-in-Bay.

One of the Finest Resorts on the Chain of Lakes—Banquet This Afternoon—Some Facts and Figures.

Put-in-Bay, O., July 12.—The formal opening of Hotel Victory was a grand success in every way and the vast crowd that visited Put-in-Bay and enjoyed the inaugural banquet and ball demonstrates conclusively that the popularity enjoyed by Put-in-Bay as a summer resort yeras ago has returned with interest through the tireless energy and remarkable ability of J. K. Tillotson. The history of Hotel Victory since its inception several years ago, if written in detail, would make one of the most interesting books for business men ever written. It would be a series of chapters of apparently insurmountable obstacles overcome, a series of victories that culminate in the magnificent Hotel Victory.

Although the postponement of the inaugural banquet from June 30 to July 12 was extensively advertised, it did not serve to keep people away. The hotel has been entertaining guests since June 29, with a constantly increasing list of names on the register. To-day everything was in excellent condition and the crowd was taken care of with ease. The electric cars did not reach Put-in-Bay as soon as they were expected, but they finally got here, and the first run was made Sunday evening about 6 o'clock. Of course everybody wanted to ride on the first car, and those who did considered themselves fortunate. Motor car No. 3 made the run with W. K. Archbald, of the Westinghouse company, at the motor, and J. K. Tillotson on the front platform at his side. When the car ran along the track without a break or slip the passengers grew enthusiastic, but when it ran up the big hill from the cemetery to Victory park a great cheer went up from the car that met with a hearty response from guests at the hotel.

Yesterday a second car was fitted with its motor, and to-day passengers from the boat landings to the hotel were transported with safety, comfort and dispatch. Each of these great cars has a seating capacity of 96 persons and can carry altogether 150 people.

The cars are 42 feet long, 8 feet wide and 12 feet high. Of these four are motor and four trailers. The combined seating capacity of the cars is 768 passengers and the combined carrying capacity 1,200, so it can be seen that vast crowds can be taken to Hotel Victory and return without inconvenience to anybody.

Of the hotel proper there is so much to be said of its immensity, one scarcely knows where to begin or where to stop. Mr. Thos. Keegan, the builder, says he has figured it out that there are 16 1-2 acres of flooring, 7 1-2 miles of base boards and a mile of wainscoting besides. There are 1,700 doors in the building and about 2,500 windows. Altogether there are 825 rooms, of which 600 are guest chambers. On the building proper there are 458,000 shingles, not including the roof, and how many there are on the roofs, Mr. Keegan himself cannot say. Of carpets, Manager Weaver says there are over 16,000 yards, mostly Brussels, Wilton and moquette. The main dining room is 160x90 feet and is about 60 feet from floor to ceiling. A balcony runs entirely around this great room about 15 feet from the floor. The ordinary is 110x60 feet. The officers' dining room, 20x40, and the nurses' and children's dining room 80x40. The total dining room capacity is about 2,000 people.

One of the most delightful rooms in the building is the main reception room, 120x50 feet, elegantly carpeted and furnished with the handsomest and most comfortable chairs. Smaller reception and party rooms open into the room, and all are elaborately furnished. The office is 90x60 feet, with beautiful red oak desk furniture and handsome oak staircase. Off from the office is the general reception room beautifully carpeted with moquette and richly furnished. The writing room, also leading off from the office, is no less attractive. The general parlor is 100x60 feet and furnished in keeping with the rest of the house. All these rooms are adequately lighted with incandescent electric lights set in the latest patterns of electric light fixtures. Everything is modern, rich, elegant and attractive. The elevator carriages are models of taste and beauty, and are arranged well for the convenience of guests.

The counter in the great bar room is 80 feet long, facing the lake. Adjoining it is the billiard room with 10 of the best tables made.

An object of interest to everybody is the kitchen, which, without doubt, is the best arranged and most modern equipped in the country. It is 100x60 feet and well ventilated and entered by enclosed vestibules from the main and ordinary dining rooms. The great ranges are as interesting as they are massive and the steam dish washers attract much attention.

The initial banquet occurred this afternoon, beginning at 4:30, and a grand hop will be held this evening.

FINDLAY FACTS.

A Grist of Bright, Newsy Items and Personals.

Findlay, July 12.—John Welsh, a cripple, aged 20 years, is under arrest for breaking into a trunk belonging to Adam Neimister, and stealing $25. A check for $5 was in his possession when arrested.

Mrs. Amanda J. Hart, a worthy lady residing on Midland avenue, died yesterday with consumption. Funeral yesterday.

A. Rockel, prominent plumber on the North Side, will move to Toledo this week.

The jury in the great damage suit of A. E. Marion against the city for $50,000 on account of gas explosions, have been out for 48 hours. Can't agree on a verdict.

Jimmy, 3-year old son of Barney Brennan, drank a quantity of tincture of arnica by mistake yesterday. A stomach pump saved his life.

Mabel Champion, proprietress of Hotel Champion, and Bartender Chas. Bolander, were fined $39.85 for violating Sunday closing ordinance in mayor's court yesterday. It was a second offense.

PLENTY OF THEM.

Republicans of Long Standing Who Will Vote for Cleveland.

St. Marys, July 12.—(Special)—The renomination of President Harrison seems to have displeased large numbers of republicans in this section and the first demonstration of this fact comes fram Ft. Recovery, Mercer county, in which place W. H. Krenning, sr., the leading citizen of the town and the wealthiest man in the county, has declared his intention of voting for Cleveland and Stevenson this fall.

His action has caused no little consternation in the republican ranks, as he was looked upon as one of the stanchest supporters the party had in this section, he having been a strong republican all his lifetime.

T. J. Pausch, sr., another old citizen, who never voted anything except the republican ticket, has also flopped over to the democratic party. Blaine's defeat for the candidacy, the unpopularity of the McKinley bill and the general drift of sentiment opposing the republican platform is the cause they assign for their doings.

MISSING ARKANSAS SCRIP

Turning Up in the Hands of Innocent Parties,

And Some of the Original Holders May be Arrested—Peculiar Complications.

Little Rock, Ark., July 12.—It will be remembered that in the report of the state burning board, which was appointed by the legislature to make a settlement with ex-Treasurer Woodruff, it was stated that the amount of state scrip tendered the board was $5,923.87 less than the amount of the same kind of scrip tendered the legislative committee which investigated the accounts, as was shown by the report of that committee. That report stated that $9,157.72 had been tendered it, while only $3,232.85 were tendered the burning board for credit on this item. The disappearance of the scrip has never been satisfactorily explained, nor does anyone seem to know what became of it. It has been rumored that within the last few days $2,000 of this scrip, with accrued interest, had been presented at the treasury for redemption, but that Treasurer Morrow, with his usual alertness, had recognized it as part of the scrip due the state on the item above, and declined to redeem it, saying the only way he would accept it would be as a credit on ex-Treasurer Woodruff's account. Your correspondent to-day made a thorough investigation of the matter. On June 27 the German National bank, of this city, received $1,000 of this scrip from the Fourth National bank, of Louisville, Ky., for collection. The bank suspected at once that it was part of the scrip that was stated to have been stolen from the state treasury during the burning board investigation of the Woodruff matter, and when, two days later, the Exchange National bank received a similar amount from the Union National bank, of Louisville, for collection, the cashiers of the respective banks formally presented the scrip for payment to State Treasurer Morrow, who declined to receive it except as above stated.

Col. John G. Fletcher, president of the German National bank, and one of Woodruff's bondsmen, at once notified his fellow-bondsmen and the attorney-general, who, upon investigation, learned that the scrip had been sent to Bernheim Bros., a large and responsible firm of wholesale whisky dealers in Louisville, by a saloon keeper by the name of Fox in this city to be credited on his account. Brenheim Bros. placed it with Louisville banks for collection with the above result.

The attorney general on July 5 enjoined the banks here from returning the scrip till an investigation could be held pending the settlement of the suit in chancery by the state against Woodruff's bondsmen. The scrip had never been redeemed, and was undoubtedly stolen from the state treasury, but by whom it is difficult to say, though suspicion strongly attaches to a certain party in Little Rock prominently connected with the Woodruff investigation.

The bondsmen have located $1,000 more of the missing scrip and are waiting for the state to get control of that before taking any steps toward a criminal prosecution. It is thought that the scrip will be forthcoming in a very few days. The scrip is dated August 9, 1873, and bears 5 per cent. interest, so that the present value of the scrip is now double that of its face.

WALES DOFFS MOURNING.

He Wants to Take a Cruise on a Warship—The Ministers May Not Allow It—His Stud Farm Sale a Good One.

London, July 12.—Five years ago the Prince of Wales started a stud farm at Wolverton, for the purpose of improving the breed of hackneys and hunters, and has spent a lot of money upon it. Last week he held his first bi-ennial sales, and there was a great gathering of aristocratic buyers, despite the distractions of a general election. The Duke of Portland bought several horses on behalf of the queen, and the sale realized altogether £66,005, a sum which was not large, considering the number and quality of the animals sold.

The Prince of Wales is spending a good deal of money in extending, altering and beautifying his so-called bachelor's cottage at Sandringham, which is to be the Norfolk residence of the Duke of York, otherwise Prince George of Wales. The house is quite large enough for any young married couple.

The prince is gradually putting off his mourning, and he is now accepting invitations to dine out with friends. He would like to go on a cruise in the autumn with the Duke of York, who is now in command of the cruiser Melampus, but it is not likely the ministers will allow him to do so. Warships have been known to founder at sea before now, and if H. M. S. Melambus should go down with the Prince of Wales and Duke of York aboard the unpopular Fifes would come to the throne of England. The average loyal Englishman never ceases to think of such a possibility.

The Prince of Wales may be asked to arbitrate upon a curious dispute which has arisen between two royal pretenders, Don Carlos and the Comte de Paris. The latter, it seems, has had the impudence to assume the armorial bearings of the house of Bourbon, of which Don Carlos is head, without "label," denoting that he belongs to a junior branch. The count, on being remonstrated with through a mutual friend, Lord Ashburnham, has declined to enter into correspondence on the subject with the don, and so the matter stands. At present nobody worries about the dispute, as neither pretender is likely ever to win a throne.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill. Small dose. Small price.

BIG LUMBER DEAL.

Duluth, Minn., July 12.—The millionaire lumber firm of Wright, Davis & Co., signed papers to-day disposing of one of the largest tracts of pine lands ever closed out in the entire west.

Besides being heavy owners of pine in the Duluth district, the firm owned four hundred million feet of standing timber on Swan River, a tributary of the Mississippi. This has all been sold to the Pine Tree Lumber company, a Weyerhauser concern, for a sum approximating $1,300,000. The timber will be sawed at towns along the Mississippi river above Minneapolis, and concentrates all Wright, Davis & Co.'s business at Duluth.

WORLD'S FAIR IN DAKOTA.

Huron, S. D., July 12.—The executive committee of the state world's fair commission opened permanent headquarters here to-day, and is in session for the purpose of adopting plans for a state building, and to arrange for collecting exhibits. It was announced that the State Dairymen's association and kindred organizations had agreed to include their exhibits in that of the state.

NOW, WE'RE OFF.

Delightful Weather for This Week's Races.

The Afternoon Events—To-Morrow's Program—Splendid List of Entries.

The first day of the Driving Park summer meeting and the opening is a most favorable one. The weather is perfect, track in splendid shape, and prospects are excellent.

The 2:28 trot and the 2:45 pace are on this afternoon for purses of $500 and $400 respectively.

The entries in the trotting race give evidence of a hot contest. With W. H. Morehouse's Judge McCory, Ketcham's Red Queen, Baldwin, Tempest, Col. Neal and Freddy J., it will be nip and tuck.

The pacing race has the following entries: Jim Gray, Accident, Ridgeway, Larry Wilkes, Wilkie Knox, Polly T., Beechnut, Lesley C., Pacific Slope, Rex D.

To-morrow's events will be a 2:40 three-year-old trot, purse $200, and a 2:29 pace, purse $500, with entries as follows:

DIAZ REFUSES TO SELL.

Gould and Huntington Cannot Buy the Tehuantepec Railroad.

New York, July 12.—The following was circulated on Wall street:

It is reported from San Francisco that C. P. Huntington and Jay Gould have received a letter from President Diaz, of Mexico, declining to sell them the Tehuantepec government railroad. The sum of $8,000,000 was offered for the road.

The line, which is expected to compete with the Panama road, is about two-thirds completed now, and is expected to be finished in 18 months. The part already finished extends from Minatitlan, on the Gulf of Mexico, across the Tehuantepec isthmus to Boca Del Norte. The Pacific coast terminus will be the point of Salina Cruz. The entire length of line will be 164 miles.

This route will shorten the distance between San Francisco and New York 1,152 miles over the Panama route.

CHAIN WORKS CLOSED

On Account of a Dispute on the Wage Question.

St. Marys, O., July 12.—(Special)—The Bimel-Standish chain works, one of the leading industries around here has been compelled to shut down on account of differences between themselves and their chain makers, some 125 in number, and it is doubtful if the works will ever be started up again, at least these are the indications at present.

The men belong to the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel workers and are members of the same order as the strikers at Homestead.

They demand an increase of wages ranging from 15 to 50 per cent., or about the prices paid at Pittsburg, and this the company are unable to stand. The situation is becoming serious.

RESORT FOR FREMONT.

Fremont, O., July 12.—(Special)—Fremont and Port Clinton capitalists will soon have a summer resort about three miles north of this city. A large dancing hall and beer garden will also be erected, and the undertaking is expected to be a great success. Two ferry boats will make daily and hourly trips between this city and that place.

Soliciting Aid to Defend the Findlay Oil Man—Street Car Men to Have Trial—The People's Party —Other Matters.

THE STREET RAILROAD MEN

Will Appear in Police Court To-Morrow for Trial.

To-morrow morning in police court the Consolidated and Robison officials and workmen who were arrested during the recent fracas will be tried on various charges, such as malicious destruction of property, disturbance and obstructing streets. There are some 75 defendants.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Toledo Members Arranging for a Permanent Organization.

A meeting has been held by citizens interested in the people's party movement with a view to forming a permanent organization. An invitation will be extended in a few days to all who desire to assist in forming an organization to assemble at a place which will be named so soon as the temporary organization determine one suitable.

FRIENDS STANDING BY HIM.

James Lawson Shot in Self-Defense and Assistance is Asked.

A. B. Clark, a driller in the oil fields adjoining Findlay, is in Toledo to-day circulating a subscription blank to secure means to retain counsel to defend James Lawson, the oil man who shot a fellow worker last week, it is held, in self-defense. The oil men who know the facts in the case are in sympathy with Lawson, and have sent representatives to St. Marys, Little Washington, Pa., and Toledo, and will send out others. The oil men believe that Lawson's act was justifiable and ask that he be helped to prove his innocence.

THIS IS THE EVENING

That the Press Club Gives Its Moonlight Excursion.

This evening at 8:20 o'clock the steamer City of Toledo will take a moonlight excursion party out on the lake under the auspices of the Toledo Press club. It will be an enjoyable event, and those who desire to spend a delightful evening on the water and enjoy a concert by the boys should not fail to be on deck.

Those who are to sing or play are Carl Wuerfel, Geo. W. Leibius, August Leibus, Bert St. John, Herman Hahn, Roy Conklin, Geo. W. Stevens, W. S. Stackhouse, G. E. Collingwood, S. V. Thomas, R. P. Brown, B. F. Bliss, Harry Snell, Ed. Clement, J. S. Draper, Maynard Kinney, Frank Baumgardner, Frank Galloway, Lyman Wheeler, Robert Cummings, Harry Cummings and Chas. O'Brien.

A pleasant time is assured.

THE RAILWAY CLERKS.

Get Up a Moonlight Excursion Which is Out of Sight.

The moonlight excursion given by the Toledo Railroad Clerks' association on the City of Toledo last evening proved to be the largest as well as the most enjoyable event of the season thus far. Long before the hour of leaving every available seat was occupied and standing room was at a premium. The party was in every way a very delightful and select one and reflects much credit on that growing and popular association. On the lower deck the Marine orchestra dispensed music for dancing, while in the upper cabin the Moonlight Serenading club entertained in pleasing and effective style with numerous vocal and instrumental selections. Several piano performers also lent their talent in making the trip a delightful one. The railroad boys are to be congratulated upon this most successful effort in the cause of "sweet charity." They richly won and deserve the popularity already attained. It is expected that a handsome sum will be realized as the sale of tickets is reported to be large.

ST. JOHN'S CHAPTER

Make Choice of Officers and Have a Social Time.

The regular monthly business meeting of St. John's Chapter of the Epworth league was held last night. It was also the time for the annual election of officers. The following were elected:

President—A. B. Hood.
First vice-president—J. W. St. John.
Second vice-president—Mrs. George Hirth.
Third vice-president—Geo. W. Bartlett.
Fourth vice-president—Miss Ida Swartz.
Secretary—Miss Sylvia Briggs.
Treasurer—Frank Eckhardt.

At the close of the business, refreshments in the form of ice cream and cake, were served.

The officers who have served during the past year have been most faithful and zealous, hence the chapter is in a good condition.

It has a membership of 109, consisting of six associate and 103 active members.

Rev. Dr. Fish, G. W. Bartlett, A. B. Hood, Miss Emma Swartz and Mrs. J. W. St. John were chosen as delegates to the meeting at St. Paul's M. E. church to-morrow evening for the purpose of forming a union league in the city.

Market Strong But Vessel Men Hold-Off—Passages.

Chicago, July 12.—Shippers were wanting considerable tonnage to load wheat to Buffalo latter part of July, but vessel agents generally held off. Few boats ready to load were on the market. One 70,000 bushel boat was chartered for wheat all at one elevator for 2 cents. There are rumors of a serious break in flour rates to the sea-board.

Buffalo, July 12.—Nothing is being done to-day in coal freights. The only charters up to noon being three Canadian schooners to Fort William, at 50c.

Duluth, July 12.—Vessel agents here profess to know nothing of offers of 3 1-8c wheat to Buffalo, made yesterday to Cleveland vessel owners.

Cleveland, July 12.—Although it is admitted that the lake freight market generally is stronger to-day than at any time since the opening of navigation vessel owners find great difficulty in efforts to advance ore rates. No tonnage has been offered on this market since Saturday. But an unsatisfactory iron market is decidedly against advanced rates and additional strength in grains necessary to any marked improvement in the Cleveland market.

LABOR'S WAR.

A Battle Like That at Homestead

Fought in an Idaho Mining District.

Strikers Attack a Non-Union Barricade,

And After Hard Fighting Force Surrender—Mill Blown Up With Dynamite—Many Killed—Troops Ordered Out.

Wallace Ida., July 12.—The strained situation in the Coeur d'Alene labor troubles culminated yesterday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock. The events of the day previous consisted of challenges from non-union men at the Frisco and Gem mines to the union miners at the town of Gem and all seemed to indicate a speedy rupture. Both the Gem and Frisco mines were guarded by men behind barricades armed with Winchesters, and as the canyon is narrow where the mines are located the men behind the barricades could sweep the two railroad tracks and the country with bullets.

The Gem mine barricade is within 300 feet of the center of the town of Gem. At 5 o'clock a miner from Gem started for Burke. When opposite the Frisco mine he was fired upon. He ran back several hundred yards to Gem, where the shot had been heard, and soon the miners in the town gathered with arms. They marched in a body toward the Frisco mill, located directly in front of the mine.

When scarcely within rifle range, a volley from the Frisco mill greeted the miners and lead whistled all about them. They scattered, and a regular battle ensued. One miner and one non-union man were killed and six wounded during the engagement. The miners in the meantime went around the hills up the canyon above the mine, loaded a car with 750 pounds of giant powder and sent the car down the track toward the Frisco mine. Directly in front of the mill an explosion occurred, shattering the mill to splinters, making it a complete wreck. The non-union men then showed the white flag and surrendered. They were marched down to the miners' union hall and guarded, no indignities being offered after the surrender.

While the fight was going on at Frisco, the Gem guards began firing

Volley After Volley

Into the town of Gem, riddling the buildings with bullets. John Ward a citizen, was shot through the arm, and Gus Carlson, a union miner, was shot and killed. Attempts to recover Carlson's body were met with volleys from the Gem breastwork and when the body was recovered, an hour afterwards, it was lifeless, another bullet having been sent through the breast. No shots were returned from Gem until the armed miners from Frisco, half a mile above Gem, returned.

At 8 o'clock a truce occurred and the sheriff, district attorney, and deputy United States marshal appeared on the scene. The train was stopped by armed guards at the Gem mine. The sheriff took the mail on his shoulders and passed on to Gem. The guards leveled their rifles at him, but dropped them when they learned his identity. At Gem several hundred men were huddled in the street with rifles and revolvers. Peace negotiations were immediately set on foot and at 12 o'clock the mine force surrendered to the union men.

Frisco and Gem were the only non-union places in the east end of Couer d' Alene. There is still considerable excitement everywhere, but no further trouble is expected. About sixty men in the mine surrendered.

The cause of the strike was a demand of the union miners for $3.50 per day for every man working under ground. The mine owners held that unskilled laborers should be paid only $3. When the miners refused to accept the scale the mines were closed. The owners declared excessive freight rates were the cause of the reduction. The lockout was begun April 1 by the Mine Owners' association and 3,000 miners were thrown out of work. Since then the mine owners have been making a struggle to run their mines with non-union men and guards. The tension has been great for months, and the opinion has prevailed that only a spark was needed to start the flames of riot. The example at Homestead and the decision of the United States courts at Boise City, making a perpetual injunction against the miners' union, brought matters to a head.

It is impossible to learn the exact condition of affairs in the Couer d' Alene mines. It is known, however, that nine men are dead; that the Frisco mill has been destroyed by dynamite and that the Gem mine has been surrendered to the strikers and the employes taken to Wallace.

A dispatch from the superintendent of the Gem mine reports one man killed at Gem and the others at Frisco. To avoid further bloodshed he surrendered the mine and all its arms. The property is now in charge of a guard appointed by President O'Brien of the union.

The governor has made arrangements to send all available militia to Couer d' Alene mines. It is thought six companies mustering about 200 men will leave for the scene.

Later—It is reported that 20 non-union men were killed in the explosion of the mill at the Frisco mines. No confirmation of this report has been received yet.

Detectives in It.

Portland, Ore., July 12.—M. C. Sullivan, local manager of the Thiel detective agency said: "We have had a few men in nearly every mine in Couer d'Alene district since the strike began, but they are there solely as laborers and have no arms. We have been expecting trouble, but the mine owners thought the union men were not prepared for a long struggle and would soon return to work. I received a dispatch from Wallace yesterday stating that I. Bean, of Boston, one of our men, was shot and killed."

Militia Ordered Out.

Boise City, Idaho, July 12.—News of the outbreak in the Coeur D'Alene mines created excitement here. The governor and United States marshal received dispatches all day from the seat of trouble and have been kept thoroughly posted on the situation. Marshal Pinkham said it would be impossible for him to raise a posse in the north to enforce the decree of the court, so he wired the department of justice. Special Agent Crossthwaite of that department sent a similar report, and expresses the opinion that the president will be obliged to send troops as he does not see any force available here equal to the enemy.

The governor yesterday notified the militia companies here, at Weiser, at Moscow, and at Hailey, to hold themselves in readiness to march. These companies are mere skeletons, and cannot muster sufficient force to cope with any determined mob.

Late last evening the governor decided to call on the president for assistance and has sent a dispatch to that effect. He will start the militia by special train as soon as the Union Pacific can get cars here for their transportation.

Republican organs out in Iowa should be careful how they stir up the ire of the people's party candidate for president. It is unsafe to provoke one who knows so much of republican campaign methods. If Mr. Weaver should tell all he knows of the sources from which he drew campaign funds for his southern tour in 1880 there might be trouble in the pious camp. Or if he should tell of the funds flowing for Gen. Butler in 1884 from the finance committee of the republican party in the Fifth Avenue hotel high-tax organs might conclude that silence would have served them better.—Chicago Times.

HORRIBLE TO RELATE.

Free Employment Office Closed a Quarter of an Hour.

The Ways That Are Dark and Means That Are Small—The Republican Ha'-Penny Politician Takes the Bun.

Yes, for fully 15 minutes the free employment bureau was closed to the waiting public yesterday, and the penny politicians are horror-stricken at this glaring neglect of duty on the part of the superintendent.

The facts of the case are these: Miss Skehan has been sick since Sunday, and unable to attend to her duties. An old colored lady, for whom Mr. Murphy had found a home, left a heavy bundle at the office, and Mr. Murphy promised to take it to her home on Superior street. He accordingly locked up the office, leaving a friend in the waiting room to apprise any one who might call, of his whereabouts, and when he would return. He was gone exactly 15 minutes, but the patience of the "waiting public" had been exhausted.

It is permissable to state here that said "public" consisted of two or three 12-year old boys, who are employed by the opposition to "keep an eye" on the office.

Now, though the workings of the Employment bureau have always been open to public view, and there are no dark secrets connected with it, still if Commissioner Lewis wishes anything ferreted out that will be of any benefit to him he would do well to engage better talent than can be secured for a package of cigarettes or a box of tutti-frutti.

This morning as a Bee was coming out of the office, a couple of amateur female ferrets came up the stairs, and one of them, in louder tones than an experienced detective would have used, said:

"What shall I ask for?"

"Oh, washing, or scrubbing, or the first thing you think of," replied her more astute, but equally indiscreet friend.

Why not bring down a boat-load of Pinkertons, Mr. Commissioner? They would be a great improvement on your cheap labor apprentices and more in keeping with your brilliant methods of doing business.

ARMED NEGROES

Make an Attempt at Lynching in Kentucky,

And Fight a Desperate Battle With the Forces of the Sheriff.

Paducah, Ky., July 12.—Great excitement was created here late last night when it was announced that a mob of negroes were marching on the jail with the avowed purpose of lynching Charles Hill, colored, who recently assaulted Lydia Simpson, a white girl. The alarm was quickly given and the sheriff gathered a force of 75 men to guard the jail.

The negroes were repulsed in their first attempt to obtain entrance to the jail by the guards, and were addressed by the mayor, who requested them to disperse. This they agreed to do, but after retreating a short distance made another stand.

At exactly 12 o'clock a band of 75 negroes suddenly appeared, marching down North Sixth street and they opened fire on the men collected at the jail. At the first fire Elmer Edwards, a young man about 20 years old, was shot through the abdomen and is now dying. After a short battle the negroes beat a hasty retreat. It is thought some of them are wounded. The jail and court room are now filled with the militia and armed citizens.

The negroes have retreated back to the Odd Fellows' lodge, which has been their chief headquarters. They still refuse to disperse and the sheriff and marshal have announced that no effort will be spared to scatter them this morning. Excitement runs high and the streets are still filled with people.

ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

Some Errors in a Recent Description Corrected.

An esteemed correspondent at Portage, O., reading in the Bee a description of the the mode of English elections sends the following:

The reprint which you published Saturday is calculated to mislead on one point, viz.: Nomination of candidates. The account you gave described pretty accurately what occurred in the "good old times," when nominations were very lively times, and produced scenes that writers of fiction in England have availed themselves freely. Now it is quite a different affair altogether. Any registered voter is entitled to apply to the returning officer, who is generally the mayor of the borough or the sheriff of the county as the case may be, for nomination forms at certain hours in the days of notice of election. On these forms a candidate may be proposed and seconded by any two registered electors of the constituency. In addition, however, to the proposer and seconder, eight other registered electors of the constituency must sign the nomination paper as assertors. Only the candidate, his proposer and seconder, and one other person whom he has to name, and who is generally his election agent, are allowed to attend the nomination. If there is no opposition, the person nominated is declared elected. If, on the other hand, opposition is offered, the election has to take place within the limits fixed by law. Candidates are chosen by a divisional council of the different parties Each party is organized into associations in each polling district. Each association elects delegates to a central council, who have the power to choose a fitting candidate to contest the division. So that the whole business is representative from beginning to end. Respectfully yours,

C. E. BARTLETT.

Professional base ball appears to be a dead duck. The diamondphobia with which the American people were possessed as late as three years ago has passed away. Nobody cares much about the national game any more. The ball players killed their own trade when they smashed the big league and went into business for themselves. Too much professionalism is what did it. And how have the mighty fallen! Lately, Clarkson, the erstwhile king of the ball field, was bounced by the Boston club, and our own smiling Jerry Denny is reduced to an alliance with a Louisville nine.—Indianapolis News.

GREAT CROWDS

At the Opening of Hotel Victory.

They are All Well Handled and Well Pleased

With Their Treatment at the Great Hotel—Meeting of the State Bar Association To-Morrow.

Put-in-Bay, July 12.—(Special.)—Hotel Victory is a scene of bustle and gaiety today and the public opening is all that the management could desire.

The boats from Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Sandusky unloaded several thousand excursionists, who, much to their surprise, were promptly and comfortably carried to the hotel from the docks on the new electric cars.

The trip was made to the hotel in five minutes. The great building was gaily decorated with flags, bunting, flowers and plants. A chicago firm did the main decorations, Heinl, of Toledo, doing the floral work. Everybody was surprised at the magnificent condition of the hotel proper and the picturesque beauty of the location. Moquette and Brussels carpets, fine tapestries, exquisite lace curtains and elegant furniture made a beautiful interior furnishing, far surpassing the anticipations of the most sanguine.

Manager Weaver and staff were busy taking care of guests as they arrived by the hundred and it was surprising how easily they handled and distributed such crowds. The hotel is so big that everybody has plenty of elbow room and what is better still, lots of fresh air and plenty of good things to eat.

The menu is elaborate and would excite the envy of the finest Metropolitan hotel chef. With flags flying, bands playing, and sweet flowers ing the air with delightful perfume, the day is one long to be remembered and Hotel Victory has leaped at once into popular favor.

Toledo above all other cities should appreciate the wonderful work President Tillotson has accomplished. The banquet is on now and everybody is comfortable and happy. Judge Brown, of the United States supreme court, registered here today, and Gov. McKinley and staff will arrive to-morrow. Other notables will arrive to-day.

The management drilled a well near the hotel to supply water for the power house. On Sunday night a splendid flow was struck which, being tested by experts, proved to be a fine quality of mineral water, stated to be equal, if not superior to the healing waters of Mt. Clemens.

The annual meeting of the State Bar association will convene at Hotel Victory to-morrow at 2 p. m. Members of the executive committee and committee on judicial administration and legal reform arrived to-day and are holding a business meeting this afternoon. The latter committee will during the meeting report on the question of the adoption of the Australian registration system of recording realty conveyances.

This committee also has under consideration the amendment of the insolvent statute of the state on which a repeal will be made. Hon. Chas. Pratt, of Toledo, is chairman of this committee.

Chief Justice Spear, of the supreme court, Judge Burket, of Findlay, and dent of the Bar association, Judge Shauck and Judge Cherrington, of the circuit court, Judge Burget, of Findlay, and Hon. Isaiah Pillars, of Lima, arrived this morning.

The Association of Clerks of Common Pleas court of the state is in annual session at the Beebe house.

"Who is General Bidwell."

The mischief that may be done by half-telling a thing and stopping there is instanced in the mention some very spiteful republican editors make of Gen. Bidwell, the latchet of whose shoes they are not worthy to stoop down and unloose. Says one, "he is an old whisky distiller, reformed in time to get onto the Prohibition ticket." Another: "he has made his fortune ont of distilling and is now ready to use it for his own notoriety." But the St. Paul Dispatch makes the worst thrust—at its own reputation. It says, "Who's Bidwell of California, anyway? Nobody seems to know." When Col. Shepard, of New York, asked this, nobody seemed surprised; but that a western editor, supposed by virtue of his geographical locality and position in the reading world to know something of the history of Spanish-Mexican California, should so expose his ignorance, is indeed humiliating to the profession. For the benefit of these individuals, and others like them, it is here repeated, briefly: Gen. John Bidwell was born in Chautauqua county, New York, August 15, 1819. In 1841 he went to California. He served in the war with Mexico until its close, rising from second lieutenant to major. He was among the first to mine for gold, in 1848. In 1849 he was a member of the state constitutional convention, and the same year was elected a member of the senate of the new state. He was a delegate to the national democratic convention held in Charleston in 1860. During the war he was a brigadier-general of the California militia, and in 1864 was elected a representative to congress on the republican ticket, serving from December 4, 1865, to March 3, 1867. He was a delegate to the Philadelphia convention in 1866. In 1875 the republicans of California made him their candidate for governor, but he was defeated by the combined opposition of the corporations of the state. Soon after his defeat he became interested in the drink problem. His extensive farm, known as "Rancho Chico," was bought by him at a nominal figure when California became a state. He has transformed it from a wilderness to a garden of flowers, fruit, nut orchards and grain fields. He and Mrs. Bidwell have made a Christianized community of the band of Digger Indians that were squatted on the tract and declined to move. Rancho Chico was once conspicuous for its productive vineyards. Its owner became a convert to the prohibition faith, and caused all his vines to be dug up and destroyed, and all the wines in his cellars to be poured out, although this was done at a loss of $500,000. In 1890 he became the prohibition nominee for governor, and was indorsed by the farmers' alliance. He polled 10,000 votes, 2,000 more than Fisk polled for president in 1888. Gen. Bidwell is an anti-monopolist, and an equal suffragist, but first of all a prohibitionist.

A remarkable Logician.

Gov. McKinley, in his New York speech used this language:

You have got to raise a million dollars every twenty-four hours to meet the current obligations of this government. From the rising of the sun this morning to the rising of the sun to-morrow morning $1,000,000 must flow into the public treasury or the obligations of this government will go unkept. How will you raise it? Will you tax yourself, your property, your occupations, your incomes, your lands; or will you raise it by taxing the products of other nations?

This is the same Mr. McKinley who told an Ohio audience that one object of tariff taxation was, that the people did not feel it as they did direct taxation. Said he: the people would never submit to it directly. Through the levying of customs duty, it is here a little and there a little, so distributed that he does not realize it—in words not Mr. McKinley's, he doesn't know it, and we can keep on fooling him. Wonderful logic, isn't it? That European countries with which we have deal, are paying the running expenses of the country. If this theory be true, with our exports increasing, how much more we are paying towards the support of the countries of Europe, which have protective laws? If this theory be true, why not pile more taxes onto these subsissive foreigners? Foreigners buy our protected goods cheaper by half than we buy them in the home market, but if they are being taxed a million dollars a day to support the United States government they ought to receive some favors. Reasonable theory, carried to its logical conclusions.

Resignation of Trustee Backus.

Three full years of effort to crowd Hon. Abner L. Backus out of the board of natural gas trustees is at last crowned with success. The ungentlemanly and insolent bearing of other members in the meeting last night was more than this citizen of seventy-five years of honorable life could stand, and he has resigned. Now the remaining trustees, some of whom care little for the public and less for law, can run the machine to their heart's content. It is certain that things will double-quick in spreading out. Whether we shall have plenty of gas next winter is quite another thing, and from appearances it is doubtful if some of the trustees care if we do or not. The taxpayers' money will go all the same, and very quickly.

Boodle Charges.

For some weeks past rumors of shady transactions in the common council of Toledo have been afloat. Insinuations have been broad in some cases, but citizens were disinclined to believe the stories, and the general expression was one of hope that the rumors might be unfounded—this hope for the good name of the affected members and the fair name of Toledo. But the charges would not down, and now the testimony of the Pluto Oil company has been given to the prosecuting attorney for investigation. It is alleged that bribes were solicited from this company. A special grand jury has been empaneled and will commence its labors tomorrow. It is understood that several members are affected. The public will await the investigation with much interest. If the charges be true the severest punishment of the law should be administered. Still, a loyal Toledoan can not help wishing that the rumors may be unfounded and that those under the ban of suspicion may be able to make a clean showing. It is bad business, and has a decided off-color look.

The New York Commercial Bulletin, in summing up the half year's business, which is far from satisfactory, says:

Another source of discouragement is the tone of feeling in business circles. Competition and low prices still keep many lines of business in unsatisfactory shape, and there is an absence of that hopeful expectancy which usually precedes an active season. The sober view of things, however, has its advantages in preventing excesses; and if nature only consents to treat us with ordinary lavishment in the coming harvest there is no reason to expect otherwise than that the latter half of the year will prove more satisfactory, upon the whole, than the first half.

And, so, in spite of all tinkering with the natural laws of trade, and all expensive manipulation and legislation in the name of labor interests and business interests, we must depend upon nature's bounty, after all, for prosperity. The farmer is the foundation man, but he is the last one considered by the present law-making political party—until it is time to fish for votes. Then it comes to light, in organs and oratory, how the party is expending time, talent, influence and money, all for the good of the laborer!

Ohio's governor shouted, at the ratification meeting in New York—"Everything we cannot produce in the United States was made free of duty by the new tariff law." Let's see; there are dried bladders, acorns, beeswax, dandelion root, currants, books and pamphlets in foreign languages, nut oil, coal tar, tobacco stems, common blue clay, turpentine, publications for the blind and hot house plants. These are among the chief articles removed from the dutiable and placed on the free list by the McKinley tariff law, "because we cannot produce them in the United States." It's a shocking thing for the governor of a great state like Ohio to tell such deliberate lies. Why shouldn't the turpentine, nut oil and beeswax industries be protected along with the dollhead, lead-pencil and feathers industries? Perhaps they had no lobbyists in the McKinley committee room.

The following specimens of metropolitan journalism were clipped from yesterday's New York Recorder:

An elderly woman walking complacently along, with the back of her dress gathered up in a wad and held in place by a dress elevator so high that every step revealed a good glimpse of a black stocking with light blue polka dots.

A prominent divine of unusual height so absorbed in ideas for the next stirring sermon as to startle two pretty girls by walking unceremoniously into them—with apologies.

The Pegtown or Pumpkinville tourist on their first outing, wouldn't put such notes into a letter to the Owl or the Eagle. A reporter out hunting for polka-dot stocking on elderly women, and for collisions on a crowded thoroughfare and such like news ought to draw a large salary.

In a recent state paper President Harrison said:

I would like to hear a bugle call throughout the land demanding a pure ballot. A free ballot, honestly expressed and fairly counted, is the main safeguard of our institutions, and its suppression under any circumstances cannot be tolerated.

Was Benjamin on earth when not only individual ballots were suppressed and perverted, but the vote of an entire state was stolen, by his party associates? Since the crime of '76 was perpetrated, it is like the red rag of Spanish history, in the face of the democracy to have this cant about "a pure ballot" flaunted by those conspirators and their boon companions and followers.

Will the reciprocity provision of the tax tariff law weaken now Blaine is out of it? The situation is in possession of the original determined opposers of the measure. The president may be shrewd enough to consider the friends of Mr. Blaine and his scheme, who are voters, although their idol is retired. There is a contingent of the party held somewhat to the doctrine of protective taxation by the slender thread of "reciprocity."

Mr. Bob Pinkerton says "I guess Carnegie and his partners have money enough." To be sure they have. Mr. Pinkerton knows whom he is at work for and that money is no object. And yet his manager was obliged to cut down the wages of a squad of his workingmen, to make his business profitable enough to suit him.

The law must take its course, the sacredness of property must be recognized. The sacredness of labor seems to be another thing. In this country, however, there is a weapon more effective than the Winchester rifle; it is the free man's ballot.

CURRENT COMMENT.

President Harrison's crying need is a chairman of the republican national committee who is not identified with any monopoly. Naturally, he has hard work finding what he wants.—Rochester Herald.

Carnegie's locked-out workmen would probably prefer "ruinous competition of foreign labor," that the republicans prate about, rather than the ruinous rifles of Pinkerton's thugs, made possible by republican protection.—Atlanta Journal.

The profits which Manager Frick derives individually from the Carnegie mills are reported to be $2,000,000 annually. That amount of money ought to command a moderately specious explanation from the manager on behalf of the company.—Kansas City Star.

One Wm. McKinley, of the state of Ohio, ought to go down to Pennsylvania and talk to Carnegie's 100,000 discharged workmen about the beauties and benefits of the American system of protection for the benefit of labor. It would be an interesting subject to the workmen in their present condition.—Charleston (Mich.) Leader.

The vacuum that Mr. Harrison created in the republican campaign when he pumped Clarkson out of the chairmanship of the national committee is still yawning to be filled. Senator Proctor of Vermont is the latest to decline the honor of sacrificing himself in that bottomless pit of pomingness.—St. Louis Republic.

No doubt millions of hearts were warmed with a glow of malicious satisfaction when they learned that the Pinkertons had been forced to capitulate, several of their number having been killed. The country at large will have occasion to rejoice if that horror should result in an abandonment of the system. It is un-American, and can not obtain the end in view.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

AN OLD TIME SEANCE

At the Board Meeting of the Gas Trustees.

Mr. Backus Makes Some Recommendations That Are Not Adopted—A Red-Hot Session.

It looked somewhat like old times at the meeting of the board of gas trustees last evening. President Greene was in the saddle for business from the start, and Mr. Backus had not everything his own way to any great extent.

The discussion sometimes waxed as hot as the night, and words that burned were on tap all through the session. Mr. Romeis was absent, and he was not missed, as Messrs. Greene and Voit were a majority anyhow.

Claims aggregating $4,170 were ordered paid and matters ran along pretty smoothly until Mr. Backus made some objections to certain bills.

Anent a bill of $10 due for flowers sent to the late Dr. Jones' funeral, a motion to pay the same out of the treasury was opposed by Mr. Backus on the grounds that it was a personal matter.

The bill was, after some discussion, approved, Mr. Backus voting no.

Mr. Backus voted against the payment of well rentals. He claimed that the city solicitor has decided that the board has no right to buy wells or pay rentals.

President Greene asked Mr. Backus if he (Backus) would vote to pay the rental if the board had money in the treasury.

Mr. Backus said he would if the city's legal adviser said the board could legally do so.

President Greene thereupon sprung a little surprise in the nature of a note announcing the sale of $100,000 gas bonds.

Mr. Backus voted no, however, and the motion to pay the rentals passed.

The receipts for the past week were $4,170 as reported by Auditor Manton.

Manager Heston reported $19,990 in the treasury.

Mr. Backus submitted a report on the reduction in the pay roll. He recommended the following changes.

To the Board of Natural Gas Trustees:

Gentlemen: Your special committee to whom was referred the following: "Resolved, That Mr. Backus be requested to examine the pay rolls and make any and all further reductions possible in other departments." The departments already investigated by the committee being of course included, beg leave to report and recommend the following changes and reductions:

Believing as I do that the action of the board at its last session in dispensing with the services of the superintendent, secretary and auditor, and by resolution imposing their important and arduous duties on the manager was ill advised and without due consideration, I have with respect to suggest that the board at once appoint a competent and experienced gas superintendent at a monthly salary not exceeding $145, and that the board re-create the office of secretary and auditor with a monthly salary not exceeding $125. By adopting the pay roll reduction of $345, as above recommended and appointing a superintendent, secretary and auditor at a monthly salary not exceeding $270, there will be left a monthly gain of $75.50 on the payroll. With competent and experienced officers at the head of these important departments, it is safe to assume that the city's interest in her gas plant could and would be managed so as to produce good financial results, providing the supply of gas holds out, which it occurs to me that it is not likely to do so if the present policy of the board be continued in supplying gas for power and manufacturing uses inside, as well as outside the city limits.

ABNER L. BACKUS,
Special Committee.

Mr. Voit challenged the charge that the changes already made were made unadvisedly and without proper consideration. The charge was false and the member making it knew it was false.

Mr. Backus maintained that his statement was correct. Mr. Heston was no gas expert and not fitted to replace the superintendent.

President Greene could not see the consistency of Mr. Backus' position. He would reduce the salaries and yet not decrease the pay roll. Mr. O'Herron did not really perform the duties expected of him, and Mr. Gerwin, the present foreman, was an expert of experience.

Mr. Backus maintained that Manager Heston was not capable of performing all the duties imposed on him.

Mr. Voit insisted that $75 a month was little enough for a bookkeeper.

President Greene asked Mr. Backus if he really would vote for the report submitted by him at the risk of disorganizing the department.

Mr. Backus was willing to guarantee that the plant would not be changed. Mr. Voit, he said, had kicked about the large pay roll heretofore.

Mr. Voit said he had kicked on the number employed, not on the salaries paid.

Messrs. Voit and Greene mercilessly criticised the report and showed that each of the persons whose salaries it was proposed to reduce were experts in their respective lines.

Gen. Greene said the statement published in the papers relative to Superintendent O'Herron notifying the employes of the office of the danger of an explosion at the Neuhausel fire was unfounded.

Mr. Backus said he had read the fact in the paper and supposed it was true.

Gen. Greene intimated that it was the policy of the papers to criticise and find fault.

Mr. Backus called attention to the fact that the board was illegally selling gas to manufacturers outside the city lines.

Gen. Greene said the statement was false.

Mr. Voit moved that that part pertaining to gas sold outside of the city be laid over for one week.

Mr. Backus asked for a certain paper pertaining to the Macomber brickyard contract.

Gen. Greene informed Manager Heston, who was hunting for the paper, that it was not necessary.

Mr. Backus—"I demand to see that paper."

President Green—"Well, you can't see it until after the meeting."

Mr. Backus—"Well, I like that; that's a nice statement to make to a member of this board."

President Greene—"That's the ruling of the chair. If you don't like it you know what you can do."

Mr. Backus—"I can't do anything; the majority is against me."

The report of Mr. Backus' was tabled.

The following opinion of the city solicitor anent the renting of wells was submitted by Mr. Backus.

Toledo, O., June 16, 1892.

Hon. Abner L. Backus, City:

Dear Sir—I am in receipt of yours of the 14th inst., inclosing "resolution of the trustees entering into contract for the purchase of a gas well, making the first $500 payment," and you inquire "if they can legally do so?"

In response, I have to say that in accordance with the recent decision of the circuit court, the natural gas trustees have no power to purchase or lease gas wells, inasmuch as the amount specified in the original act authorizing the issue of bonds for that purpose has been expended.

You also "inclose resolution authorizing the manager to turn on gas at manufacturing establishments as fast as possible," and then you "submit the inquiry if he can discriminate against any having a contract for gas and having been cut off, or must he give any surplus that the trustees have of gas to those holding contracts in the order of the date of such contracts?"

In reply to this, I would say that the manager cannot discriminate between those holding contracts of the city for gas, unless there is something in the contracts themselves which allows such discrimination to be made. Not having the contracts before me I cannot construe the same.

Should there be a surplus of gas over what was necessary to furnish those now connected with the lines, those who had been temporarily shut off from the supply would be entitled to prior rights over those who had made contracts subsequently thereto, providing, of course, they manifested a desire to use the gas. However, should it become necessary on account of the shortage of gas to supply some and cut others off, those having the prior contracts would have the prior right to the extent allowed by their contract.

I might add, should it become necessary to make such discriminations, owing to such insufficiency of gas, it can properly be made between classes of consumers without regard to date of contracts; in other words, all persons similarly situated are entitled to equal service.

Respectfully yours,
W. H. A. READ,
City Solicitor.

Manager Heston reported in the treasury $19,900.

A claim of Kerlin Bros., for tools loaned the city, was presented and referred.

ANOTHER REFUSAL

Of the National Republican Committee Chairmanship.

Nobody Seems to Want This Most Undesirable Position.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—Henry C. Payne, of this city, whose name is prominently mentioned in connection with the chairmanship of the national republican committee, said yesterday that under no circumstances would he accept the position.

AT LAKESIDE.

Baptist Meeting Closed—Other Conventions at Once.

Lakeside, O., July 12.—(Special)—The Baptist Young People's assembly closed yesterday. The day was spent in excursions to the islands, Sandy Beach and other points of interest. Last evening they gave an informal reception at the hotel from 8 to 10 p. m.

This assembly has been an interesting and profitable one and it is hoped to see them all back in 1893.

The boats and trains which take away the Baptist people bring in the Maccabees and others to attend the assemblies of the season.

The convention of Maccabees of Ohio will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, July 12 and 13. They will give a public entertainment Tuesday at 8 p. m., and on Wednesday at 8 p. m. Mr. E. E. Shipley, of Cincinnati, will give a stereopticon entertainment, "Views by Cincinnati Camera club."

THE ALDERMEN

Meet on a Very Hot Evening,

And Go Through a Good-Sized Schedule of Municipal Legislation.

The weather and temperature in the council chamber last evening was very much and decidedly hot and consequently the spirits of the board of aldermen were correspondingly quiet. A goodly schedule of business was disposed of with but little comment, and the sonorous voice of Reading Clerk Kirby and the monotonous drawl of Clerk Lamb's roll call were about the only signs of life apparent.

A few sidewalk and small improvement resolutions were the only new business presented.

From the schedule ordinances were passed to turnpike Mott avenue from Starr avenue to Licking street; and to open and extend Scottwood avenue.

The ordinance to establish the grade of Woodruff avenue and the resolution granting to property owners on Woodruff avenue to pave 100 feet of that street east of Canton avenue were referred back to the street committee on motion of Mr. Leroux.

Resolutions were adopted to pave Dorr street from Waite avenue to the city line, to turnpike South street, Park street to the city line; to pave Wisconsin street, Washington to Collingwood avenue, to pave Nebraska avenue between Elizabeth street and Hawley, between Hawley and Hoag streets, and between Hoag and Junction avenue; to repair Spellbusch avenue; directing the street commissioner to remove obstructions from alley between St. Clair street and Oliver street, and granting to the property owners permission to grade the alley between Bridge and Cherry streets.

The ordinance was passed to grant the Ohio Telephone and Telegraph company the right to construct and operate telephones and telegraphs along certain streets of the city of Toledo.

The plat of Baldwin Heights addition was passed.

Petitions were presented to construct a sewer in Smead avenue and to pave the same street. These were referred to the appropriate committees.

On leave Mr. Hartford introduced a resolution to grade Mott avenue from Licking street to East Broadway. This was referred to the street committee.

The ordinance to construct a sewer in Page street which the council board passed over the veto of the mayor was treated in the same manner by the aldermen and the sewer will be built.

The ordinance to improve Division street and East Broadway, which came from the lower board, were referred back to the street committee on motion of Mr. Hassenzahl.

The ordinance to pave Fulton street was lost by a unanimous vote.

As several members had amendments to offer to the new street railway ordinance it was referred back to the committee on motion of Mr. Leroux.

The ordinance to improve Bancroft street, Lagrange to Elm and the resolution to improve Webster street were also referred back.

Other business from the council board was passed.

SITUATION IN HONDURAS.

New Orleans, July 12.—The steamship Wanderer arrived yesterday with latest intelligence in Spanish Honduras. Ceiba has been retaken from the insurgents and Mulla and his party of insurgents have been captured in the interior. It is probable that before this they have been executed.

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR

Report That He Had Died in London.

The Statement, However, Was Very Premature,

As Mr. Astor Is Improving in Health and His Condition Is Not Considered Dangerous.

London, July 12.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon the correspondent of the United Press who called at the Lansdowne hotel to inquire as to the condition of Mr. William Waldorf Astor was informed by a member of the family that Mr. Astor was doing splendidly. The family were shocked to learn that a report of Mr. Astor's death had been printed in New York.

They were also much annoyed because of the number of inquiries which the rumor had caused to pour in upon them and at the many visits made to the house on the same account. Mrs. Astor dined out last evening and has arranged to attend the theater to-night.

These facts are sufficient to indicate that Mr. Astor's condition is not regarded by his family as at all serious.

As stated yesterday by the United Press, Mr. Astor has steadily improved since the first announcement of his illness was made.

After leaving the Lansdowne hotel the correspondent met Secretary White, of the American legation, who said: "I met Mrs. Astor out driving at fifteen minutes past noon and inquired as to her husband's health. Mrs. Astor informed me that he was very much better and that he had not been seriously ill at any time; he had only been suffering from a bad cold and the family had not been at all anxious about him."

There were numerous callers at the Lansdowne hotel to-day and the family received many congratulations upon the improvement in Mr. Astor's condition, general alarm having been caused in the American colony by the false rumor concerning the patient.

His Career.

Wm. Waldorf Astor was the only son of John Jacob and Augusta Gibbs Astor, and a great grandson of the original John Jacob Astor, who came to this country from Waldorf, Germany, and laid the foundation of the family's vast fortune. He was born in this city on March 31, 1848, just two days after the death of his great grandfather. His early life was spent in this city at the home of his parents, where the foundation for the excellent education which he obtained was laid.

He subsequently traveled extensively in Europe with his tutors, studying in Germany and Italy. He was the favorite of his grandfather, Wm. B. Astor, and by the will of Wm. B. Astor, the bulk of his estate was given for life to his sons, John Jacob and William, and then it went absolutely to their heirs. John Jacob Astor died on February 22, 1890, and Wm. Waldorf Astor came into possession of the estate, which he had a great share in managing from the time of his grandfather's death.

In the fall of 1877 the republicans of the Eleventh assembly district were looking for an able young man as their candidate for the assembly. Some one suggested that it would be a good thing to nominate Wm. Waldorf Astor. In the canvass he made himself exceedingly popular, and he was elected by a majority of over 1,500 votes. In 1877 Mr. Astor was put forward by the republicans as in the Tenth district, embracing parts of the Twelfth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second wards of the city. This was under the new apportionment, and the district ought to have had a good democratic majority. Mr. Astor was elected over the united democratic candidate, Charles A. Jackson, by a majority of nearly 3,000.

The appointment of Congressman Levi P. Morton as the United States minister to France in 1881 created a vacancy in the Eleventh congressional district, and Mr. Astor was nominated by the republicans to contest the seat. Roswell P. Flower was the candidate of the united democratic party and won by a small majority. This was the last time that Mr. Astor stood for an elective office.

President Arthur in 1882 appointed him minister to Italy, where he remained until 1885. He read extensively, and while abroad wrote "Valentino," a historical novel, the scene of which was laid in the sixteenth century. Mr. Astor, on June 6, 1878, married Miss Mary D. Paul, daughter of James W. Paul, of Philadelphia. She was a niece of Admiral Dahlgren and of Abbott Lawrence, of Boston. Her brother, J. W. Paul, served in the union army during the civil war, and afterward married a daughter of A. J. Drexel. Mr. and Mrs. Astor

Had Three Children.

They are Waldorf, who is 13 years old, Pauline, 12 years old, and John Jacob, 6 years old.

Besides being the head of one of the richest families in America, and a politician of some distinction, Mr. Astor was also an artist and a writer. "Valentino," his first published work, was followed by "Sforza," a novel dealing with the invasion of Italy by the French under Charles VIII. This story has been said to be one of the strongest novels written by one not a professional novelist in many years.

He was a careful student of art, and both when a young man and in later years, spent much time in the galleries of Europe.

An accurate estimate of the extent of Mr. Astor's wealth is impossible. Much of it is in real estate, the selling value of which is problematical, and the most intimately associated with Mr. Astor in the management of his business are unable to say what he is worth.

It is doubtful if he himself can tell accurately. He is considerably richer than his cousin, the present John Jacob Astor. When William B. Astor died, his two sons, John Jacob and William, shared equally in his estate, for life, and then it went to their heirs, but gains from the original John Jacob had made John Jacob, second, richer by about $5,000,000. His estate increased much more rapidly than that of his younger brother, for he devoted himself to business closely, while William lived expensively and entertained largely. Conservative estimates placed the wealth of William Astor at $40,000,000 when he died. If that is to be relied upon, William Waldorf Astor, who inherited almost the entire estate of John Jacob Astor, may fairly be thought to be worth about $60,000,000.

For Several Lots of Bonds Sold Last Night.

The City's Credit Is Evidently Improving, and Money Comes Easier.

Four lots of municipal bonds were offered for sale by the ways and means committee of the council last evening, and the bids for the same showed a decided improvement in the money market and the premiums received were far ahead of any that have been paid for Toledo bonds for several years. This is especially true of the natural gas bonds, due to the recent favorable decision of the circuit court. City Solicitor W. H. A. Read is entitled to much credit for his work in this case, as it puts the Toledo bonds on a firm footing.

This is the first lot of bonds sold under the administration of City Auditor Pheatt, and he is also much elated over the result, which promises peace and prosperity for city paper.

There were a number of bidders, and the bonds sold and premiums received were as follows:

Dredging bonds to the amount of $8,000, Spitzer & Co., par, accrued interest and a premium of $61.60.

Natural gas bonds, $100,000, Brewster, Cobb & Easterbrook, of Boston, par, accrued interest and $261.

General fund bonds, $110,000, Seagrave Bros., par, accrued interest and $3,701.

Fire department bonds, $30,000, Seagrave Bros., par, accrued interest and $106.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS,

The Distinguished Editor, in a Dying Condition.

New York, July 12.—George William Curtis, the distinguished editor of Harper's Weekly and chancellor of the board of regents of the university of the state of New York, has been very ill for several weeks at his home on Staten Island with a disease that puzzled his physicians to define. Last week a consultation was held and it was then decided that Mr. Curtis was suffering from cancer of the stomach and that a favorable termination of the disease could not be looked for, although there was no instant danger. Mr. Curtis may live a month or more. He was resting very comfortably last evening.

MINES CLOSING DOWN.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 12.—The Champion mine closed down yesterday, throwing several hundred men out. The Lake Superior mine may close down also, throwing out 1,000 men. The situation is the worst in many years in the ore regions of the Lake Superior district.

While the fields were roaming over,
Breathing new-mown hay and clover,
We'll think of her, as is our wont;
Whose teeth and breath are, every day,
White as white clover—sweet as hay,
And all from using SOZODONT.

'CEPTIN' JIM.

We boys 'ud run an' romp an' play
From early morn till close of day;
We'd tramp for miles with dog an' gun
An' think that huntin' was such fun
'Ceptin' Jim.

He wuz a cripple from his birth
An' wuz no sort o' use on earth.
His mother wuz the Widder Flynn,
Who hadn't nary chick nor kin
'Ceptin' Jim.

She lived by takin' washin' in.
The Widder's face wuz sharp an' thin;
Hard work hed left its creases there,
An' no one thought her sweet ner fair
'Ceptin' Jim.

One day we went below the mill,
Where shadders fell so cool an' still,
A fishin' thar for perch an' trout,
An' no one knew we were about
'Ceptin' Jim.

When some one came an' raised the sluice
An' turned the rush o' water loose,
While everything began to go
An' we were all down thar below
'Ceptin' Jim.

He got a pole an' limped aroun'
An' pried the gate back to the groun';
Then slipped. * * * *
We used ter gather by
A leetle grave where grass grew high,
All, 'ceptin' Jim.

In Forsyth county, Georgia, is a carved or incised boulder of fine-grained granite, about 9 feet long, 4 feet 6 inches high, and 3 feet broad at its widest point. The figures are cut in the boulder from 1-2 to 3-4 of an inch deep.

The centrifugal force developed by the earth's rotation tends to throw bodies off its surface as a stone is propelled by a sling, and in consequence of this fact, 1-298th part of weight of every particle of matter lying along the equator is employed in keeping it on the earth.

It appears that electrical apparatus for the South American trade is built in sections, each weighing under 400 pounds. The reason is that in a great many cases all supplies for a plant have to be transported on mules, and 400 pounds is about the limit of a mule's carrying capacity.

A scientist states that in the course of about 6,000,000 years from now the force at work on earth will have completely leveled its surface, so that there will no longer be hills or valleys, continents or distinctive oceans. All the land will have been washed down into the sea, which will then cover all with a watery mantel and render impossible any life except that which can exist without dry land.

Fans in Shakespeare's time seem to have been composed of ostrich and other feathers, fastened to handles. Gentlemen carried fans in those days, and in one of the later figures of the german they now carry fans. According to an old manuscript in the Ashmolean Museum, Sir Edward Cole rode the circuit with a prodigous fan, which had a long stick with which he corrected his daughters.

A famous duchess in London recently went through the ordeal of having a dress made on her own figure. She stood for three hours, while the dressmakers wrought 50 yards of rare old lace, that could not be cut, into a gown for a soiree, at the close of which every stitch had to be carefully cut and picked out before the lady could disrobe. The amount of torture that fair woman will undergo in the name of vanity would astonish the martyrs.

If a man weighing 168 pounds were to be transferred to the moon, the weight of his body, measured, at least, by the attraction which the moon would exercise upon it, would be reduced to about twenty-eight pounds. If his muscles and his frame remained the same, it would seem as if he would be able to jump over a wall twelve feet high on the small globe without any greater exertion than would be required to clear a wall two feet high on the earth.

The Empress Eugenie had a passion for pearls, and was, in the days of her power, the possessor of a necklace whose largest stones were the size of pigeon's eggs. After the Franco-German war, the empress sold the pearls to Mme. de Paena for 300,000 francs, which Mme. Le Breton brought to London in a little handbag. Another famous collection of pearls was that which Mlle. Thiers accumulated in three years' search for perfect specimens. These were bequeathed to her sister, Mlle. Dosne, and are valued at 400,000 francs.

Nothing more plainly illustrates that the girl of the period is partial to things antique than her persistent fondness for the long-trained skirt. It is found on investigation that this abominable costume was invented first in England by Anne, Queen of Richard II, nearly 500 years ago. This was probably the first street-cleaning apparatus to be invented. This same queen should also be blamed for the large hats, those of abnormal size with great flaring brims, intimate relatives of our theater bonnets now in vogue. Surely this estimable woman had much to be responsible for.

Negroes who go from America to Africa frequently become slave-holders by reason of their superiority in intelligence to the natives of that benighted country, and because they have some money. This is the report given by Rev. A. McCullough, who has been visiting in parts of Africa, where there are colonies of prosperous American negroes. These American negroes, he says, almost invariably invest whatever money they have in slaves, and are cruel and avaricious masters.

The czar is to be commiserated on the death of Col. Kommissaroff, who saved the monarch's life from the hands of an assassin, and for whom the czar ever afterwards had the warmest affection. Kommissaroff was a serf at the time his brave deed was done, and the czar could not do enough in reward of his devotion. He ennobled Kommissaroff on the spot, made him colonel of one of the best regiments in the empire and gave him valuable estates.

A countryman tells this pretty tall story in the Cincinnati Times-Star: "When in the city we do not act half so idiotic as city folks do on a farm. Why, do you know last summer a student from the Cincinnati university visited my farm, and one day when I started to get some young potatoes, took the basket from my hand and said he'd get them. Half an hour later he came back with an empty basket, saying that he had hunted all over the patch and could find nothing but blossoms. There was not a single potato on the vines. I thought he would drop dead when I took the hoe and began digging them out of the ground. He said he thought they grew on top of the vines."

A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

"Come, now, fellows, I say that's mean!"

"Oh, hear the parson! Of course it's mean—everything is, except his own precious schemes. I should like to know what harm there is in helping ourselves to a few strawberries. Ain't the fields full of 'em? and what right has that little beggar got to take possession of that field and pick 'em all? You're too good to live with common folks, Phil—you'd better go as a missionary."

Philip West flushed a little at this attack, but stood to his colors manfully, in spite of the derisive shouts of the boys.

"Mr. Davis has given him permission to pick those strawberries," he said, "and been waiting two weeks for them to ripen, and he's going to sell them. If you take the strawberries, it will be just the same as robbing him of the money."

"Well, what of it?" said Fred Anderson, the first speaker. "What's a fellow that's the charge of the town want of money?"

"He isn't the charge of the town," said Philip, warmly. "You know better! He's working as hard as ever he can to take care of himself and his little crippled sister, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself, Fred Anderson!"

"Oh, you shut up, parson! Go down and preach to the Patagonians; we ain't heathens. Come on, boys; we've got just about time to pick that field and get the berries down to the grounds." And a troop of boys marched over the fence of Mr. Davis' mowing field and fell to gathering strawberries with great detriment to the grass nearly ready for cutting.

Philip West stood angrily watching them with his hands deep in his pockets for a few minutes, then turned away muttering something that sounded very like "sneaks!"

It was a day fixed by the young people of the village for a strawberry festival in a certain pretty grove by the lakeside. The girls had prepared tables that were to be filled with good things for the benefit of those who were willing to pay for a dinner, and a sail on the lake and a great deal of merry-making after dinner had been planned.

Philip came forth half an hour later resplendent in a natty bicycle suit and was soon bowling down the road to the grove for his share of the fun. As he passed the Davis strawberry field he caught sight of something in the grass that made him stop his machine with a suddenness that nearly precipitated him into the ditch, wheat and all.

"What are you doing here, Ned?" he demanded.

Ned Banks raised his head. He was a red-headed, weak-eyed, awkward boy, the laughing stock of the whole school by reason of his slow wits and uncouth appearance.

"Somebody's taken my strawberries," he said, "every one, just as I was going to pick 'em, and the towsled head went down into the grass again.

"Well, never mind, Ned," said Philip, kindly. It was a mean thing to do, but I'll—" Philip hesitated between a good-natured desire to help and a dislike to offering money to a poorer boy. "I'll tell you what—I want somebody to arrange my geological specimens and catalogue 'em, you know, and you're just the fellow to do it. I'll give you 50 cents if you will. Won't that make up for the strawberries?"

"Yes," said Ned, in a stifled voice, "but 'twill be too late then. I was going to sell 'em so he'd take 'em all this morning, and she's all ready to go and I—I just hate to tell her. She never has any fun, you know, like the other girls," and poor Ned, whose heart was better than his wits, dropped down into the grass again as if bereft of all hope.

Philip winked rather hard and thought savagely of the oranges for which he had spent his last dime.

"I can't pay you in advance," he said, meditatively, "but I'll—you hold on!"

Ned looked up in amazement as bicycle and rider suddenly shot away down the road with breakneck speed in the direction of the grove.

The plunderers of poor Ned's strawberry field were emerging from a cross-road laden with the spoils, and were just about to enter the festive grove when Phil West's bicycle came tearing around a curve in the road and a hot and dusty rider flung himself unceremoniously into the midst of the group.

"I say, fellows," he exclaimed, "you're meaner than dirt if you don't pay Ned for those strawberries. He was going to use the money for Pearl to come to the festival."

The boys stood irresolute. Dull-witted, awkward Ned Banks was one person and his little crippled sister, with her sweet face and sunny smile and hair as soft as an angel's wing, was another. Pearl was the pet of the whole school, and the roughest of the boys were gentle to her.

But Philip's tone was aggravating and Fred Anderson, the ringleader of the marauding band, prided himself upon taking nobody's commands.

"Don't mind the parson, boys. It's his business to preach, but it's ours to have some fun. Goodness knows we've earned all the strawberries in town scrambling round in that hot field. Come along and let the missionary preach to the crows."

The band went on with their spoils, which they knew would find a ready market on the grounds where the tables were being set. Philip was left behind and stood looking after them speechless with indignation. But a quick-witted helper had heard and grasped the situation. It was Violet West, Philip's cousin, a general favorite among the young people and a sort of oracle whom everybody consulted on occasions like the present.

"Here, Phil," she said quickly, "run and tell papa to buy the boys' strawberries, every one, and bring them here. Then you go put Gyp into my phaeton and bring Pearl and Ned down here. They'll be in time for dinner and all the fun. We can't have them at the large table, but we'll put up another. Hurry!"

Philip was off like a flash, and Violet, with her arms full of the flowers and vines she hah been gathering to decorate the tables when she came upon the party of plunderers, went back to the grounds and rallied her followers, among them the strawberry pickers who were unsuspiciously rejoicing at having sold their spoils so quickly and secured a little extra pocket money.

"Here, boys," she said, "come here and help me. The big tables are all full and I'm going to put up an extra one for myself and a few friends, you among the number. Bring that empty table over here, and, Fred, you hull these strawberries as quick as ever you can," handing the unsuspecting youth a basket of the stolen fruit. "Tom," to another marander, "bring here that hamper of extras mamma put up in case of need, and then go over to the house and get some sugar and cream, and tell Kittie to send over some dishes."

All hastened to do her bidding, and by the time Philip drove up with his guests in the pony phaeton the improvised table was the prettiest one in the grove. Five minutes later it was certainly the liveliest one, for Violet presided, and though some of her followers were decidedly discomfited at the appearance of little Pearl, attended by Ned, who had evidently learned the fate of his strawberries, no one could long resist the spirit of merriment that possessed the hostess.

People at the big tables turned to smile at the happy party, and one old lady said good naturedly, as she beamed upon them through spectacles, "Bless their hearts! Clear consciences and light hearts do wonders toward making things pleasant."

But Fred Anderson said afterward: "I never felt so like a sneak as I did when that great honest simpleton up and said how good 'twas of us to pick his strawberries and give him such a surprise, when we meant to steal 'em all the time. And when that little angel of a sister of his smiled at me, I wanted to hide, and if you ever catch me no to such tricks again, Phil West, you'll oblige me by throwing me into the creek, stolen goods and all. But I'll tell you what, old fellow, 'twas the coals of fire that broke me up more than all your blustering at me."

Moral: "If you want a boy to do anything don't get mad about it, but just outwit him quietly," said Violet with a laugh, showering strawberry buds down upon the heads of the reconciled pair.

CATHOLIC SYNOD

Discussing Matters of Discipline at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—The seminary of St. Francis was the scene to-day of the first synod of the Catholic divines of the arch diocese of Milwaukee that has been convened for very many years. The council has been called at the instance of Archbishop Katzer, and this prelate is presiding over its deliberations. Absolute secrecy is attached to the proceedings of the body, but it was officially given out this morning that it had been called primarily for the purpose of discussing matters of discipline, or the laws which bind the members of the church in their conduct as distinct dogmas or articles of faith, which affect their belief.

One important subject to come up for consideration is the decrease of the third plenary council of Baltimore with particular reference to the application to the laws of discipline. The school question and other semi-political matters which during the past year or more have considerably agitated the state are also likely to be considered.

It is expressly intimated that the synod has simply advising powers and that in all matters examined into the archbishop himself will have full and arbitrary powers of decision.

Mr. W. D. Wentz, of Geneva, N. Y., was cured of the severest form of dyspepsia by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Full particulars sent if you write C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient action.

WANT A MILLION.

The City of St. Louis Has a Big Suit on Hand.

St. Louis, July 12.—The heirs of one Thomas Smith are suing the city for a million dollars, and the suit is ready to go to trial. Several years ago the city purchased from Thomas Smith the ground known as Washington Square, paying him $25,000 for it and pledging itself to keep it as a public square forever. Now it is erecting a new city hall in the center of the square at an outlay of $2,000,000, and the Smiths claim another million as damages for breach of agreement. Several eminent lawyers are encouraging the Smiths, but the city's legal advisers laugh at the claim on the ground that the square will be beautified by the proposed fountains and walks around the municipal building.

SILAS PETERS ON EDUCATION.

Believe in eddication, sir? Well, I jest guess I do.
I've seen too much o' how it works to take the other view.
I've seen how knowledge takes a spot that's sort o' cold and bare,
'Nd covers of it up with quite a nickel-plated air.
I sees the difference every day 'tween eddicated folks
'Nd them as thinks it's nothin' but a fraud 'nd sort o' hoax.

Why, right to home I sees it. There's my wife, she's studied well
Not only how to read 'nd write, to cipher, 'nd to spell,
But she's an artis' likewise in a most uncommon way,
'Nd I believe to find her like you'd travel many a day.
For instance, she can knock a tune from our melodeon
As easy as a huntsman pulls the trigger of his gun.

I've seen that woman play a song with one note up in G,
'Nd then the next one came 'way down—as far I s'pose as Z—
'Nd not a bit of difference did it ever seem to make
If she had twenty-seven notes, or only one to take;
Her fingers they would hop about, 'nd all the needed keys
She'd seem to strike as easy, sir, as you or I could sneeze.

But best of all her talents is the way she decorates.
She'll make a lovely whatnot with two simple apple-crates;
'Nd all the picture-frames we have upon our parlor wall
She's made of colored maple leaves she'd gathered in the fall;
'Nd all our books, from almanacs to Doctor Browne or Hope,
She's got in cases that she's built of boxes made for soap.

The organ stool she uses when she sets her down to play
Ain't store-made as you'd think, but jest a stump she found one day.
She's covered of it up with cloth all trimmed with fringe and stars,
'Nd set a cushion on the top. 'Nd all our ginger-jars
She sort o' paints in gewgaw style, with dragons in a fight;
'Nd when she sets 'em round the house, they makes a pretty sight.

I tell ye, sir, it takes a gal that knows a fearful pile
To take a lot o' common things 'nd give 'em such a style
They seem to be worth having, 'nd my wife she does all that—
I've seen her make a basket of a busted beaver hat.
It's eddication's done it, 'nd if my kids isn't fools,
I'll see they gets as much of it as there is in the schools.

A HOLIDAY IN HEAVEN.

Celebration Spoken of in the Bible.

The Hosts of Eternity Gathered Around the Throne,

Singing God's Praises—An Eloquent Appeal by Dr. Talmage to Those Who Have Not Consecrated Themselves to the Lord.

London, Eng., July 12.—Dr. Talmage is spending a very busy season in England. Not only in the London churches, but in the provinces, enormous crowds have gathered to hear the eloquent American preacher. The great Shoreditch Tabernacle in the East of London, where Rev. W. Cuff preaches, was thronged almost to suffocation, and the large Congregational church in the Hackney district could not hold half the people who tried to get into it, though it was on a Monday evening that Dr. Talmage preached there. Outside London, the eagerness to hear him has been quite intense. In Liverpool, Manchester, Nottingham, Crewe, and Hanley, no church could be found large enough to accommodate the audiences and Dr. Talmage preached in the halls in which the great political conventions are held, and the capacity of these was tested to the utmost. Since his arrival he has preached seven times each week. The sermon selected for publication is from the text, Rev. vii, 9-10: "After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb."

It is impossible to come in contact with anything grand or beautiful in art, nature, or religion, without being profited and elevated. We go into the art gallery, and our soul meets the soul of the painter, and we hear the hum of his forests and the clash of his conflicts, and see the cloud-blossoming of the sky and the foam-blossoming of the ocean: and we come out from the gallery better men than when we went in. We go into the concert of music and are lifted into enchantment; for days after, our soul seems to rock with a very tumult of joy, as the sea, after a long stress of weather, rolls and rocks and surges a great while before it comes back to its ordinary calm.

On the same principle it is profitable to think of heaven, and look off upon that landscape of joy and light which St. John depicts; the rivers of gladness, the trees of life, the thrones of power, the commingllings of everlasting love. I wish this morning that I could bring heaven from the list of intangibles, and make it seem to you as it really is—the great fact in all history, the depot of all ages the parlor of God's universe.

This account in my text gives a picture of heaven as it is on a holiday. Now if a man came to New York for the first time on the day that Kossuth arrived from Hungary, and he saw the arches lifted, and the flowers hung in the streets, and he heard the guns booming, he would have been very foolish to suppose that that was the ordinary appearance of the city. While heaven is always grand and always beautiful, I think my text speaks of a gala day in heaven.

It is a time of great celebration—perhaps of the birth or resurrection of Jesus; perhaps of the downfall of some despotism; millennium. I know not what; but it does seem to me in reading this passage as if it were a holiday in heaven; "after this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb."

I shall speak to you of the glorified in heaven—their number, their antecedents, their dress, their symbols, and their song. But how shall I begin by telling you of the numbers of those in heaven? I have seen a curious estimate by an ingenious man who calculates how long the world was going to last, and how many people there are in each generation, and then sums up the whole matter, and says he thinks there will be twenty seven trillions of souls in glory. I have no faith in his estimate. I simply take the plain announcement of the text—it is "a great multitude, which no man can number."

Every few years, in this country, we take a census of the population, and it is very easy to tell how many people there are in a city or in a nation; but who shall give the census of the great nation of the saved? It is quite easy to tell how many people there are in different denominations of Christians—how many Baptists, and Methodists, and Episcopalians, and Presbyterians; of all the denominations of Christians we could make an estimate. Suppose they were gathered in one great audience room; how overwhelming the spectacle! But it would give no idea of the great audience room of heaven—the multitudes that bow down and that lift up their hosannas. Why, they come from all the chapels, from all the cathedrals, from all sects, from all ages; they who prayed is splendid liturgy, and those who in broken sentences uttered the wish of broken hearts—from Grace church and Sailor's bethel, from under the shapeless rafters, and from under high-sprung arch—"a great multitude that no man can number."

One of the most impressive things I have looked upon is an army. Standing upon a hillside you see forty thousand or fifty thousand men pass along. You can hardly imagine the impression if you have not actually felt it. But you may take all the armies that the earth has ever seen—the legions under Sennacherib and Cyrus and Caesar, Xerxes and Alexander and Napoleon, and all other modern forces, and put them in one great array, and then on some swift steed you may ride along the line and review the troops; and that accumulated host from all ages seems like a half-formed regiment compared with the great array of the redeemed.

I stood one day at Williamsport, and saw on the opposite side of the Potomac the forces coming down, regiment after regiment, and brigade after brigade. It seemed as though there was no end to the procession. But now let me take the field glass of St. John and look off upon the hosts of heaven—thousands upon thousands, ten thousand times ten thousand, one hundred and forty and four thousand, and thousands of thousands, until I put down the field glass and say, "I cannot estimate it—a great multitude that no man can number."

You may tax your imagination, and torture your ingenuity, and break down your powers of calculation in attempting to express the multitudes of the released from earth and the enraptured of heaven, and talk of hundreds of hundreds of hundreds; of thousands of thousands of thousands; of millions of millions of millions; until your head aches and your heart faints, and exhausted and overburdened you exclaim: "I cannot count them—a great multitude that no man can number."

But my subject advances and tells you of their antecedents, "of all nations and kindreds and tongues." Some of them spoke Scotch, Irish, German, English, Indian, Spanish, Tuscl, Choctaw, Burmese. After men have been long in the land you can tell by their accentuation from what nationality they came; and I suppose in the great throng around the throne it will not be difficult to tell from what part of the earth they came.

These reaped Sicilian wheat fields and those picked cotton from the pods. These under blistering skies gathered cane reeds and yams. Those crossed the desert on camels, and those glanced over the snow, drawn by Siberian dogs, and these milked the goats far up on the Swiss crags. These fought the walrus and white bear in regions of everlasting snow, and those heard the song of fiery-winged birds in African thickets. They were white. They were black. They were red. They were copper color. From all lands, from all seas. They were plunged into American dungeons. They passed through Spanish inquisitions. They were confined in London Tower. They fought with beasts in the amphitheater. They were Moravians. They were Waldenses. They were Albigenses. They were Scotch Covenanters. They were Sandwich islanders.

In this world men prefer different kinds of government. The United States wants a republic. The British government needs to be a constitutional monarchy. Austria wants absolutism. But when they come up from earth from different nationalities, they will prefer one great monarchy—they will prefer one great monarch. And if that King Jesus ruler over it. And if that monarchy were disbanded, and it were submitted to all the hosts of heaven who should rule, then by the unanimous suffrages of all the redeemed, Christ would become the president of the whole universe. Magna Chartas, bills of right, houses of burgesses, triumvirates, congresses, parliaments—nothing in the presence of Christ's scepter, swaying over all the people who have entered upon that great glory. Oh! can you imagine it? What a strange commingling of tastes, of histories, of nationalities, "of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues."

My subject advances and tells you of the dress of those in heaven. The object of dress in this world is not only to veil the body, but to adorn it. The God who dresses up the spring morning with blue ribbon of sky around the brow, and earrings of dew-drops hung from tree branch, and mantle of crimson cloud flung over the shoulder, and the violeted slippers of the grass for her feet—I know that God does not despise beautiful apparel. Well, what shall we wear in heaven? "I saw a great multitude clothed in white robes." It is white! In this world we had sometimes to have on working apparel. Bright and lustrous garments would be ridiculously out of place sweltering amid forges, or mixing paints, or plastering ceilings, or binding books. In this world we must have the working day apparel sometimes, and we care not how coarse it is. It is appropriate; but when all the toil of earth is past and there is no more drudgery and no more weariness, we shall stand before the throne robed in white. On earth we sometimes have to wear mourning apparel—black scarf for the arm, black veil for the face, black gloves for the hands, black band for the hat. Abraham mourning for Sarah; Isaac mourning for Rebecca; Rachel mourning for her children; David mourning for Absalom; Mary mourning for Lazarus. Every second of every minute of every hour of every day a heart breaks.

The earth from zone to zone and from pole to pole is cleft with sepulchral rent, and the earth can easily afford to bloom and blossom when it is so rich with moldering life. Graves! graves! graves! But when these bereavements have all passed, and there are no more graves to dig, and no more coffins to make, and no more sorrow to suffer, we shall pull off this mourning and be robed in white. I see a soul going right up from all this scene of sin and trouble into glory. I seem to hear him say:

I journey forth rejoicing
From this dark vale of tears,
To heavenly joy and freedom,
From earthly care and fears.

When Christ my Lord shall gather
All his redeemed again,
His kingdom to inherit—
Good night till then.

I hear my Saviour calling;
The joyful hour has come,
The angel guards are ready
To guide me to our home.

When Christ our Lord shall gather
All his redeemed again,
His kingdom to inherit—
Good night till then.

My subject advances, and tells you of the symbols they carry. If my text had represented the good in heaven as carrying cypress branches, that would have meant sorrow. If my text had represented the good in heaven as carrying nightshade, that would have meant sin. But it is a palm branch they carry, and that is victory. When the people came home from war in olden times, the conquerer rode at the head of his troops, and there were triumphal arches, and the people would come out with branches of the palm tree and wave them all along the host. What a significant type this of the greeting and of the joy of the redeemed in heaven! On earth they were condemned, and were put out of polite circles. They had infamous hands strike them on both cheeks. Infernal spite spat in their faces. Their back ached with sorrow.

Their brow reeled with unalleviated toil. How weary they were! Sometimes they broke the heart of the midnight in the midst of their anguish, crying out, "O God!" But back now to the shout of the delivered captives; as they lift their arms from the shackles and they cry out "Free! Free!" They look back upon all the trials through which they have passed, the battles they have fought, the burdens they carried, the misrepresentations they suffered, and because they are delivered from all these, they stand before God waving their palms. They come to the feet of Christ and they look up into his face, and they remember his sorrows, and they remember his pain, and they remember his groans, and they say: "Why, I was saved by that Christ. He pardoned my sins, he soothed my sorrows;" and standing there they shall be exultant, waving their palms.

That hand once held the implement of toil or wielded the sword of war; but now it plucks down branches from the tree of life as they stand before the throne waving their palms. Once he was a pilgrim on earth; he crunched the hard crusts—he walked the weary way; but it is all gone now, the sin gone, the weariness gone, the sickness gone, the sorrow gone. As Christ stands up before the great array of the saved and recounts his victories, it will be like the rocking and tossing of a forest in a tempest, as all the redeemed rise up, host beyond host, rank beyond rank, waving, waving their palms.

My subject makes another advancement and speaks of the song they sing.

Doctor Dick, in a very learned work, says that among other things in heaven he thinks they will give a great deal of time to the study of arithmetic and the higher branches of mathematics. I do not believe it. It would upset my idea of heaven if I thought so; I never liked mathematics; and I would rather take the representation of my text, which describes the occupation of heaven as being joyful psalmody. "They cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation unto our God." In this world we have secular songs, nursery songs, boatmen's songs, harvest songs, sentimental songs; but in heaven we will have taste for only one song, and that will be the song of salvation from an eternal death to an eternal heaven, through the blood of the Lamb that was slain.

I see a soul coming up to join the redeemed in heaven. As it goes through the gates, the old friends of that spirit come around it and say: "What shall we sing?" the newly-arrived soul says: "Sing salvation;" and after awhile an earthly despotism falls, and a scepter of iniquity is snapped, and churches are built where once there were superstitious mosques, and angel cries to angel: "Let us sing;" and the answer is: "What shall we sing?" and another voice says: "Let us sing salvation." And after a while all the churches on earth will rush into the outspread arms of the church of heaven, and while the righteous are ascending, and the world is burning, and all things are being wound up, the question will be asked: "What shall we sing?" and there will be a voice "like the voice of many waters, like the voice of mighty thunderings," that will respond: "Sing Salvation."

In this world we have plaintiff songs—songs tremulous with sorrow, songs dirgeful for the dead; but in heaven there will be no sighing of winds, no wailing of anguish, no weeping symphony. The tamest song will be hallelujah—the dullest tune a triumphal march. Joy among the cherubim! Joy among the seraphim! Joy among the ransomed! Joy forever!

On earth the music in churches is often poor, because there is no interest in it, or because there is no harmony. Some would not sing; some could not sing; some sang too high; some sang too low; some sang by fits and starts; but in the great audience of the redeemed on high all voices will be accordant, and the man who on earth could not tell a plantation melody from the "Dead March in Saul" will lift an anthem that the Mendelssohns and Beethovens and Schumanns of earth never imagined; and you may stand, through all eternity and listen, and there will be not one discord in that great anthem that forever rolls up against the great heart of God. It will not be a solo; it will not be a duet; it will not be a quintette; but an innumerable host before the throne, crying, "Salvation unto our God and unto the Lamb." They crowd all the temples; they bend over the battlements; they fill all the heights, and depths and lengths, and breadths of heaven with their hosannas.

When people were taken into the Temple of Diana it was such a brilliant room that they were always put on their guard. Some people had lost their sight by just looking on the brilliancy of that room, and so the janitor when he brought a stranger to the door and let him in would always charge him, "Take heed of your eyes."

Oh! when I think of the song that goes up around the throne of God, so jubilant, many-voiced, multitudinous, I feel like saying, "Take heed of your ears." It is so loud a song. It is so blessed an anthem. They sing a rock song, saying, "Who is he that sheltered us in the wilderness, and shadowed us in a weary land?" And the chorus comes in: "Christ the shadow of a rock in a weary land."

They sing a star song, saying, "Who is he that guided us through the thick night, and when all other lights went out, arose in the sky the morning-star, pouring light on the soul's darkness?" And the chorus will come in: "Christ, the morning-star, shining on the soul's darkness." They will sing a flower song, saying: "Who is he that brightened all our way, and breathed sweetness upon our soul, and bloomed through frost and tempest?" and the chorus will come in, "Christ, the lily of the valley, blooming through frost and tempest." They sing a water song, saying, "Who is he that gleamed to us from the frowning crag, and lightened the darkest ravine of trouble, and brought cooling to the temples, and refreshment to the lip, and was a fountain in the midst of the wilderness?" and then the chorus will come in, "Christ, the fountain in the midst of the wilderness."

My friends, will you join that anthem? Shall we make rehearsal this morning? If we cannot sing that song on earth we will not be able to sing it in heaven. Can it be that our good friends in that land will walk all through that great throng of which I speak, looking for us and not finding us? Will they come down to the gate and ask if we have passed through, and not find us reported as having come? Will they look through the folios of eternal light and find our names unrecorded? Is all this a representation of a land we shall never see?—of a song we shall never sing?

Washboards Make It Warm.

Bobbing up and down over them is pretty hot work. That rub, rub, rub on them is the best thing in the world to warm you up, and tire you out, and wear holes in light and delicate summer garments. Why don't you use Pearline, and take it easy? You can keep cool—and yet have the work better done.

Pearline takes away the rubbing, and the washboard, and the warm work. It gives you more time to yourself—and saves your money.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 336 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatment

DOCTOR OTTMAN,

Formerly of New York, now the Celebrated Examining Physicians of THE FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, have decided to visit Toledo

SATURDAY, JULY 16.

Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

The doctors describe the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for any one to possess. Their diagnostic powers have created wonders throughout the country.

The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the State incorporated with a Capital of $300,000.00.

DR. OTTMAN, the Celebrated Examining Surgeon of the

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,

38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 35 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, etc. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market opens steady, spot and future corn firm. Liverpool wheat opens steady, demand improving. Corn, no American here.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 4,396,000 bu. of wheat and 254,000 bbls. of flour, equal to 5,436,000 bu. of wheat, and 1,600,000 bu. of corn. The imports of wheat and flour were about 2,200,000 bu. above the average.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage decreased last week 3,120,000 bu., being a decrease to the United Kingdom of 2,030,000 bu., and a decrease to the Continent of 1,088,000 bu. Corn decreased 356,000 bu.

Minneapolis, July 11.—The Northwestern Miller reports the stock of wheat in private elevators of Minneapolis at 1,076,000 bu., a decrease of 23,000 bu. for the week. Stocks of wheat in country elevators in the northwest are 2,154,900 bu., a decrease of 387,000 bu. during the week.

Bradstreet's says: Total American stocks of available wheat, both coasts 35,650,000 bu., are materially in excess of similar holdings on July 1 of 1891, 1890 and 1889, but smaller, in some instances materially so, than the aggregate on July 1 of 1888, 1887, 1886 or 1885. Our cable advices from Melbourne July 7 announce 2,853,000 bu. of available wheat in Australia, as compared with 5,508,000 bu. on July 1, 1891.

London Values of Winter Wheat.

Beerbohm quotes American winter wheat, this morning, for shipment this and following month at 3 3-6, which equals $1.01 per bus. The water freight from Toledo about 11c bus. London knows the value of our No. 2 soft wheat, and the daily quotations, and if London wants wheat at the quotation, why here it is, on tap, and we shall be glad to furnish it and guarantee its identity. The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 176,939 bus. and at five other western points 543,378 bus. Aggregate 520,317 bus. On the corresponding Tuesday in 1891 the receipts were 387,910 bus. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 261,617 bus. and flour to an aggregate of 300,000 bus. Exports of corn 63,422 bus., and of oats 49,024 bus.

English markets as reported herein are a shade firmer for wheat and corn.

The Ocean Stock of Wheat and Flour.

As stated elsewhere the flour and wheat on ocean passage decreased last week equal to 3,120,000 bu, but about 2,000,000 bu of it is accounted for by the excess of importation into the United Kingdom in the same week, over an average quantity. The aggregate ocean stock is now 25,016,000 bu, corresponding week in 1891 39,032,000 bu. In 1890, 24,984,000 bu. In 1889, 15,160,000 bu.

The Markets To-Day.

The shipments of wheat from India last week equaled 300,000 bu. Previous week 1,400,000 bu. Since April 1, the beginning of the crop year, to July 9, 7,772,000 bu, compared with 21,040,000 bu in the corresponding period n 1891.

The alleged deficiency in Indian production begins to materialize, if the shipments are any indication.

The demand for export is only moderate, and the actual outward movement is ditto. Foreigners do not seem to thanker after our cheap wheat, but they may go further and fare worse. There seems to be no great short interest in the markets, and buyers for investment are by no means numerous. These are every-day conditions now, and what wonder if markets continue weak and tending towards still lower prices. When will the morning break on these dry bones? Are we to suffer until the price reaches 75c?

There is very little change in the markets for wheat to-day. For awhile prices were a little better, but settled back again to the closing prices of yesterday at Chicago and about 1-8c less in New York.

Corn is lower. Reports of hot corn arriving in New York, weakened the market but prices recovered part of the loss before the close. But corn or wheat there is no life in either. Pork and lard are making profits for late buyers.

In New York August corn closed 1c and September 7-8c lower. July oats 3-8c lower.

In Chicago August corn closed 3-4c and September 5-8c lower. July oats 1-8c lower.

In Toledo.—The trading has been higher again to-day, but with prices close on 1-4 easier on futures there has been a little better tone to the market and more doing. On the call August sold at 78 1-2c to 78 1-2@78 5-8c; July at 79 1-4c. After the call July sold at 79 1-8c. First half sold at 80c. August sold at 78 1-4c to 1-8c and closed at 1-4c September sold at 79c 78 3-4c and closed at 78 7-8c.

Cash wheat has been in good request. Our receipts of new yesterday were 22 cars and all of it except four were No. 2. Prices to-day favor old wheat by 1-4c. The sales of new No. 2 soft have all been at 80@80 1-4c for old, which is a less of 12c. No. 3 sold at 75c for new and 75 1-2 for old. For August delivery this grade sold at 73 3-4c; rejected No. 1 at 73c, No. 2 L. S., 68c; smutty at 70c.

Corn—No. 2 at 49c; No. 3 at 47c to 47 1-2c; No. 4 at 40c. Oats—No. 3 white at 32 1-2c. Rye for August offered at 64c.

BLOODY TIMES

In the Republic of Venezuela.

Terrible Battle Fought Near El Guayra.

Government Troops Trapped by a Pretended Retreat,

And Are Slaughtered Without Mercy.

Crespo's Triumphant Army Advancing Upon Caracas, the Capital—Manifesto From Palacio.

New York, July 12.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Caracas says that ex-Dictator Palacio has issued a manifesto from Fort De France, Martinique, bitterly assailing his late military chiefs and predicting the rebel leaders triumph. Copies of it have been distributed all over the capital and Palacio's friends are deserting the new government by the score.

The council on June 29 sent back Gen. Crespo's commissioners without permitting them to hold an interview with Villegas. They were told that the government intended to defend Caracas to the bitter end.

There was intense excitement in Caracas on June 30 caused by reports of a bloody battle raging in the vicinity of El Guayra, where Guerra and Vega, with Crespo's advance column, were intrenched. There was terrific slaughter in the engagement. The government forces telegraphed to Caracas that they had scored a splendid victory and that the rebels were in full flight.

The Crespoists, it seems, only pretended flight, their object being to draw the government troops into a trap. In this they succeeded. Gen. Guerra's Llaneros, stripped to the waist, attacked the government camp in the midst of a terrific thunder storm. They spared none of the surprised enemy. The carnage was terrible, the government left line being entirely destroyed. The right wing was defeated on the following morning.

The Crespoists, flushed with victory, are again advancing upon Caracas. The people in Caracas are terror-stricken.

The traffic with La Guayra is interrupted and a famine is at hand. Provisions are at an enormous price. A deathly quiet prevails in the city and the streets are all deserted save by the police and civic troops. Crespo is expected hourly.

MR. BACKUS RESIGNS

As a Member of the Natural Gas Board.

The Document Filed With Mayor Emmick This Morning—The Gentleman Will Not Discuss Reasons.

This morning Mayor Emmick found the following communication on his desk, which explains itself:

Toledo, July 12, 1892.

Hon. Vincent J. Emmick.

Dear Sir: I tender you herewith my resignation as trustee of the city's natural gas department, to take effect from and after this date. Yours truly,

ABNER L. BACKUS.

"Why has Mr. Backus resigned?" asked a Bee of the mayor.

"I know nothing of the circumstances that led Mr. Backus to take such a step," was the answer.

Mr. Backus was seen, but he desired to say nothing further than that his resignation was the outcome of the little unpleasantness that arose in last evening's meeting of the board. He feels very indignant over the manner in which the board has treated him.

VETERANS' RETURN TO WASHINGTON.

The Grand Army encampment at Washington in September will be the occasion of the reunion of thousands of veterans who parted in that city in 1865, after the grand review following the surrender at Appomatox and the capitulation of Richmond. Again, after a lapse of 27 years, thousands of veterans will march down Pennsylvania to be reviewed again by the president of the United States, members of his cabinet, and other distinguished personages. It will be a spectacle seldom equaled in the magnificence of the display and in the number of men participating. Excursion tickets to Washington via the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will be sold by all the roads in the west at exceedingly low rates. The chief delight of the trip to Washington will be the journey via the picturesque Baltimore & Ohio, which crosses the Allegheny mountains and for 250 miles traverses territory fraught with the most thrilling incidents of the war. For more detailed information as to time of trains, rates, and sleeping car accommodations apply to L. S. Allen, Asst. Gen. Passenger Agent, The Rookery, Chicago. Upon application, Chas. O. Scull, Gen. Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md., will send free of charge a handsomely illustrated Guide to Washington.

WON $300,000.

St. Louis Sharps Do Up New York "Bookies" for That Amount.

New York, July 12.—There were more doleful and exasperated bookmakers in this city last night than has been for a month of Sundays. Their chagrin was caused by the discovery that a gang of St. Louis sharps had taken them—and, incidentally, the public—into camp and roasted them brown.

The seventh (extra) race at Monmouth Saturday was for all ages at five furlongs. One of the latest entries was Queenie Trowbridge, a chestnut mare, unknown to eastern betting men. The bookmakers paid so little attention to her that they made errors in several instances in recording her in the sheets first as Trowbridge and then as Queenie, and some of them thought they had two horses to deal with.

Odds of 40 to 1 were offered and money poured in with such amazing rapidity that in a few minutes there was a slump to 30, and when the horses were at the post the odds had fallen to 8 to 1.

Thousands of dollars were placed so quickly with every bookmaker who would accept—and none of them refused—that they never for an instant suspected trickery. Thirteen horses started, and the unknown western mare galloped home. She was never headed once during the race.

When the "bookies" began to compare notes they found they had been wickedly robbed, cheated, defrauded, knocked down and dragged out in a most dreadful manner. A rough estimate Saturday night put the losses at $200,000, but to-night it was stated on good authority that the amount would not fall short of $300,000.

Paul Boyton | With his great company are at Presque Isle Friday, Saturday and Sunday, giving their wonderful performance on the water. Go Friday or Saturday, and avoid the rush on Sunday. Pastime leaves 10, 12, 2, 3:30, 5:30, 8:30. The exhibition is free.

ORGANIZED LABOR

In Toledo Sympatnizes With the Homestead Strikers.

The Pinkertons Must Go—Resolutions of Sympathy Passed and Financial and Moral Support Promised.

There has been much excitement in labor circles over the dastardly deeds by Pinkerton's hirelings, and nearly all the unions stand ready to render assistance when called for. The Lake Seamen's Benevolent association has passed the following resolutions, which embody the sentiment expressed by almost every body of organized men in Toledo:

Whereas, The cause of the locked-out iron workers of Homestead, Pa., is the cause of humanity; and

Whereas, The employment of Pinkerton thugs is an insult to American labor and a menace to the peace of the country, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Lake Seamen's Benevolent association, No. 7, of Toledo, do hereby extend our earnest sympathy to our brethren at Homestead, and promise prompt financial and moral support, when necessary, and be it further

Resolved, That we denounce in unmeasured terms the iniquitous Pinkerton system and call on the government to suppress the cruel and brutal despotism.

L. A. 1942 held a good meeting last night in the Express hall. The session was short. The Homestead strike was taken up and sympathy expressed for the sufferers.

Installation of officers was the principal business before the meeting of the Tallymen's union in Druid hall last night, and the ceremonies lasted until a late hour. The officers who will serve for the ensuing year are: President, Chas. Bramer; vice president, Chas. Blancho; recording secretary, John Bramer; financial secretary, Fred Vergiets; treasurer, Henry Bohnsack; trustees, Wm. Bohek, T. Bramer and Fred Kreutzfield; conductor, Michael Schultz; wardman, Fred Sass.

The metal polishers at their regular meeting in Rensch's hall last night elected new officers, as follows: President, Rufus Young; vice-president, J. J. Gerrity; recording secretary, A. McAlpin; financial secretary, Wm. Mulholland; corresponding secretary, H. G. Curlett; treasurer, J. F. Gerity; trustees, Gus Schliegel, Anthony McCaffrey, F. J. Carr; guard, Fern Knape.

Coopers' union, No. 3, met at Carpenters' hall last night. There was a good attendance and the proceedings were interesting. Sympathy with the Homestead strikers was expressed, and assistance will be rendered them if necessary.

The Cigarmakers had a good turnout at their weekly meeting last night, but the session was cut short on account of the extreme heat. Besides the regular routine business, the situation at Homestead was discussed, and resolutions of sympathy with the strikers passed.

International Machinists' union, No. 11, met at Turley's hall last night with fair attendance. The Homestead strike was the subject most discussed, and the machinists will give assistance if needed.

Brotherhood of Painters' and Decorators' union, No. 7, will meet at Clarke's hall to-night. Mr. Chas. Mayer, the efficient secretary, is writing newsy, detailed reports of these meetings for the Public Record.

Clerks' Mutual Protective union, No. 2151, will meet this evening at Turley's hall.

The Bricklayers hold their weekly meeting this evening at Mulcahey's hall.

The Building Trades council met last night, transacted routine business and adjourned at an early hour.

TOO HOT FOR BABIES.

Even Adults Cannot Endure the Heat.

Then What Must Our Little Children Suffer?

Some Good Suggestions to Parents About Proper Feeding.

"I felt as though I could not live through the recent hot spell," said a Toledo mother yesterday, "but when I saw how miserable the hot, parched air made my little children feel, I took courage and tried to endure it."

Hot weather is depressing to grown-up people, but it is positively killing for little children. There are dangers in the air and in the water; cholera infantum and the various troubles which children have, come down upon the little band like an army. At first, parents notice a languor and peevishness on the part of the child. Instead of being full of life and energy, it appears miserable. Instead of being hungry most of the time, it does not care for food, and even if it takes food, its stomach too often rejects it. It is a dangerous time for any child when these things occur. It is a time when the little one must be fed, must be nourished. It is a time when pure food, which its little stomach will receive and turn into vitality, must be given. Parents too often fail to realize this, and fail to take proper care, until unfortunately it is too late.

There is but one scientifically prepared food for children, and that is lactated food. There are more than one hundred thousand children in this land to-day, who unquestionably owe their lives to its use. The Bee could be filled with the grateful words of fathers and mothers who realize what it has done for their children.

The child of Edward L. Gifford, Esq., 309 Market street, San Francisco, Cal., is one whose case has attracted great attention on the Pacific coast, and has been reported in some of the eastern medical journals. Mr. Gifford says.

"When born, my baby weighed 4 1-2 pounds, and was so poor that the skin hung on him in folds and wrinkles. His trials were only begun, for the nurse did not seem to think it worth while to save such a poor little specimen of humanity, and neglected him. His mother's milk disagreed with him, and he grew, if possible, thinner than when born. The physician advised us to use lactated food. The baby began to improve as soon as it commenced using this food, and fattened up remarkably. Since then he has not had a sick day or hour."

Papers throughout the country have printed many letters this summer from physicians and parents, urging the use of lactated food, while boards of health in many sections have co-operated with the manufacturers in its introduction, for it saves babies' lives.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Collingwood Avenue Grading.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, up to 12 o'clock at noon of Monday,

THE 18TH DAY OF JULY, 1892,

for improving Collingwood avenue from Forrer street to Nebraska avenue, by grading the sidewalk beds on said avenue to the established grade.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid for that part of the improvement lying in the street intersections in cash within ninety days after the acceptance of the work and the remainder of the cost will be paid in an assessment levied upon the abutting property in one installment, payable in ten days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written out in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matters specified in this notice, must deposit with the city clerk on each bid the sum of Seventy-Five Dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that, if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until the first estimate of work done, (or double the amount of deposit,) is reported to the comon council.

Bidders will be required to endorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer

The republican ratification meeting at Toledo was more than a tame affair. Even the vivid imaginations and exhaustive resources of the reporters on the republican papers of the "Future Great" could not get a rosente hue onto the report of the proceedings. Verily, the way of the republican ratifyer is difficult.—Fostoria Times.

"The Daily Resorter" (Petoskey, Mich.) comes regularly to the Bee table, bright, breezy and delightfully suggestive of the cool and lovely retreat—the beautiful little town where it "lives." It is chock full of news of the comers and goers at the North Michigan resorts of which Petoskey is the head center, and this blistering weather is sending them northward in crowds. Mr. Hampton deserves great credit for his enterprise. The "Resorter," now in its eighth volume, is a feature of the season.

Mockett's Special Trade Winners for this Week

At the beginning of the Spring season we started in to give our Patrons the benefit of some Special Value Offer every week. This plan we have adhered to and it has brought its reward in the shape of hundreds of new customers. No other house in the city ever did or ever will see such Perfect Goods at as Low Prices as Mockett's. Hence our increasing trade. This week we offer some of the very best values in our Men's Furnishing and Boys' and Children's Departments it has ever been your good fortune to see.

Where Do You Buy . . . Your . . .

COLLARS AND CUFFS?

If not from us you make a mistake. We guarantee to sell you the same quality, make and styles, as other houses, and at the same time save you 30 per cent. We sell all

25c COLLARS at 18c EACH
Or 2 for 35c.

20c COLLARS at 15c EACH

E. & W. GOODS EXCEPTED.

Don't Wait . . . Any Longer!

If you've been waiting for a bargain in Summer Underwear—this will fill the bill. Of all the noted Bargain Sales that have been held from time to time in our department of Furnishing Goods, the one we announce to-day will stand as one of the greatest.

WE HAVE PLACED ON OUR COUNTERS TWO CASES OF

. . . GENUINE . . . BALBRIGGAN . . UNDERWEAR

At the ridiculously low price of

EACH. 49c. EACH.

PER SUIT. 98c. PER SUIT.

Don't imagine because the price is a low one that the goods are correspondingly poor—THEY ARE NOT. They have always sold as especially good values at $1.25 per suit, and by the smaller dealers at $1.50 per suit.

The shirts are made with the French neck (the most comfortable for Summer wear), the drawers have strap adjustment at back (the handiest in use), and the goods throughout are neatly and strongly finished.

We have just received another 100 doz. of Men's Balbriggan Half Hose in especially good quality, tan shades, which we shall sell at 15 cts. per pair or 2 for 25 cents.

NEGLIGEE - SHIRTS!

Our stock of Soft Negligee Shirts has just been replenished with a new shipment of handsome goods. The patterns comprise neat checks and stripes in bold and dainty colors.

Our special price on this new arrival of shirts will be

$1.25

Each. To see them at the price) is to buy. We still have a very handsome stock of soft-bodied Shirts with laundried collars and cuffs.

Prices range from $1.25 and upwards

By trading with us you are insured of always getting the latest and best goods that the markets afford and at the lowest cash prices.
